FRENCH ADD 2 DIVISIONS TO AID ARMY IN SILESIA

Iron Hand Grasps All Suspected Of Plotting Against Allies

ITALY ALSO HELPS

Wirth Government Near Fall Owing To Sanctions

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 21.—The Excelsior states that two French divisions have been sent as reinforcements to Upper Silesia.

The Italian Government has accepted the French Government's proposal for the despatch of reinforcements, and two Italian regiments are expected to arrive in Upper Silesia shortly.

The managements of the Upper Silesia railways and of the German railways are working in close touch to ensure the transport of the Allied troops.

Strong measures have been taken in Kattowitz to get rid of the dangerous elements which had found their way into the town. Searches were made and all doubtful characters summarily ejected. A number of individuals suspected of plotting a new attack on the Allied troops were arrested.

WIRTH GOVT. TOTTERS

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 21.—A semi-official statement in regard to Upper Silesia declares that the Wirth Government is in a very critical position, largely owing to the Entente continuing the sanctions.

Paris, July 21.—The Temps says that Great Britain is anxious for a speedy conference because this is necessary to save the Wirth cabinet which, she believes, would check any German rising in Upper Silesia.

The journal declares that this belief is an illusion.

GREEKS CAPTURE TURKISH STORES; KEMAL NEAR END

Rapid Pursuit Of Fleeing Enemy Brings Fall Of Eskishehr

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, July 21.—Military circles here express the opinion that the capture of Eskishehr practically ends the war against the Kemalists.

It is reported that the Greeks have captured immense booty, including 180 guns and 1,000 prisoners, and that the Kemalists are fleeing in disorder and are being pursued.

On the other hand, Reuter's correspondent at Constantinople telegraphs that the chief of the Kemalist General Staff declares that the loss of territory and fortresses is of secondary importance. The army, he asserted, retired to pre-arranged positions without serious fighting, and he expresses confidence as to the outcome of the struggle.

IN RAPID PURSUIT

Athens, July 21.—It is officially announced that the Greeks have occupied Eskishehr, and are continuing to pursue the enemy with precision and rapidity.

Eskishehr is a town in Asia Minor some 40 miles from Kutaiah which the Greeks took only two days ago, showing the rapidity with which the victors are pressing their campaign. The town is an important railway junction, and has 20,000 population, of which 15,000 are Mohammedans and the remainder Christians. The chief industry is the manufacture of meerschaum pipes from beds of the clay which are 18 miles east of the town. Most of the clay is shipped in its raw state to Germany. The value of the annual output in 1910 was more than two million dollars Mex.

CRANE ASSISTS BRAVE EFFORT OF IRKUTSK SCHOOL

Ex-Minister Wires Peking For Equipment He Donates To Medical College

Chita, July 18.—Mr. Charles Crane, the retired American Minister to China passed Lake Baikal on the 4th inst. and Irkutsk on the 5th, where he made a short stop to visit the city. On the 10th instant Mr. Crane reached Tomsk and seemed to be satisfied with his journey through Siberia. At Tomsk Mr. Crane made also a stop before he started the short stretch to the Urals and thence to Moscow.

Mr. Agaroff, the Acting Chairman of the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China has received a telegram from Mr. Crane addressed to Union Medical College and transmitted by Mr. Yourin, the Minister of Foreign Affairs to Peking. The telegram reads as follows:

"The medical department of Irkutsk University is in dire need of different medical journals (magazines), new books on medicine, microscopes, and all kinds of medicines and supplies for the clinic. Please buy on my account at your discretion and send to Irkutsk through the Mission of Far Eastern Republic to China, Crane."

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 21.—Secretary of State Hughes today again discussed the disarmament conference with Baron Shidehara. It is believed that the conversations are a preliminary to a formal explanation of America's attitude as regards the agenda of the conference on the position of the Pacific and Far East generally.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 21.—The question of a Pacific conference is absorbing the interest of all shades of opinion here who express the wish that Japan should frankly and with an open mind participate in it.

Mr. Wakatsuki, the leader of the Kenseikai Party, speaking at a sitting of the party committee, strongly urged that Japan should, before the conference, explicitly expound her policy towards China and Siberia with a view to dispelling misunderstandings abroad.

The Jiji says in an editorial article that the Japanese are in the warmest support of a meeting and are determined to give the Government every encouragement to co-operate with the other nations in the realisation of its aims.

The Yomiuri urges the complete setting aside of doubts regarding the motives of the conference, the results of which will be worthless unless the discussions are conducted without prejudice.

The paper says that the principle of the open door and equal opportunity in the Far East is undoubtedly sound for the preservation of peace and the welfare of mankind, but that if it were equally applicable everywhere in the Pacific it would be the most effective means of removing the

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Turlock, Cal., July 21.—The president of ten local vegetable workers' unions has been arrested on charges of kidnapping and inciting riot in connection with the deportation of Japanese yesterday. Four other warrants are out for the arrest of members of the white mob which attacked the Japanese. An agent of the Department of Justice is conducting an investigation into the affair. Virtually all the deported Japanese have returned, and the town is quiet.

GOVERNOR'S DECLARATION

Los Angeles, July 21.—"The rights of Japanese and all other aliens resident in California must be observed," declared Governor Stephens in a statement referring to the deportation of Japanese from Turlock.

"Anti-Japanese demonstrations in this country are not sanctioned by the better class of citizens," he added.

No Heartache For Filipinos As The Irish Now Undergo

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 22.—Dr. Mannix, the Archbishop of Melbourne, was enthusiastically received by the local Irish Archbishop, Dr. O'Doherty, and other church dignitaries on his arrival here.

Dr. Mannix stated that he thought the Filipino situation would be solved "without such heartache as in Ireland," because the American Government was more liberal than the "stubborn British Government."

The Archbishop lauded the British public which, he said, was waiting for a change to remove Mr. Lloyd George from power.

Archbishop Mannix sailed for Australia this morning.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—With regard to the Irish situation, it is pointed out that a most hopeful sign is the continuance of the truce.

In the House of Lords last evening, Lord Crewe optimistically declared:

"If the negotiations prove successful, and at present I am glad to say they seem charged with hope, it is conceivable that the Assembly of the Irish Parliament may be necessary in the autumn."

The speaker pointed out that Mr. de Valera and his colleagues had been elected to the Dail Eireann on the Republican ticket, and that therefore they did not possess authority to abate their demands for Irish independence.

A prominent Irishman in London declared last evening:

"We are no less optimistic today than we were two days ago."

While some quarters in Dublin fear that a hitch has occurred in the Irish negotiations, well-informed persons are generally still optimistic and are not disposed to consider the negotiations as broken off.

It is expected that Mr. de Valera will submit the whole case to the Dail Eireann (Irish Republican Parliament) which can modify, if it considers it advisable to do so, the pledges entered into before Mr. de Valera's conversations with the British Prime Minister.

Well-informed persons here are confident that the Irish delegation will soon return to London.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE

London, July 21.—According to a communique, Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. de Valera conferred for an hour today. The basis for a formal conference has not yet been found.

Mr. de Valera has arranged to return to Ireland tomorrow and will communicate with Mr. Lloyd George again, after a further discussion with his colleagues.

The two Governments undertake to reach an agreement upon questions of foreign policy affecting their relations with their eastern neighbors. The duration of this convention is five years from the date of signature, but each Power enjoys the right to renounce the convention after two years, provided mutual agreement to this effect has been reached six months previously."

Admiral Sims And Prince Of Wales Given Honorary Degrees At Cambridge

Rear Admiral William S. Sims was in England primarily to receive the honorary degree of LL. D. from Cambridge University. His popularity in Great Britain began even before his now famous speech in London. He was honored at Cambridge by receiving his degree at the same time as the Prince of Wales at the Senate House of the university. The Rear Admiral is shown in the picture near the Prince as both joined in the procession from the Senate House. The Admiral appears to have been vastly amused at one of the time-honored pranks of the collegians—the hanging of a proctor in effigy.

Japanese Photographer Guards German Forts At Tsingtao "Battlefields"

By Elsie McCormick

THOSE who because of flat feet during the war or flat pocket books after it, have not seen the battle fields of France may discover at least a few shell-holes, dugouts, and barbed wire entanglements by riding only a short distance out of Tsingtao. Rusty barbed wire still bars the way to the large guns that once dominated the harbor, shallow, weedgrown trenches show where the German forces once made a stand against the Japanese, and shell holes filled with water tell a silent story of the bombardment that shook the city in 1914.

Out on a point only a half hour's ride from Tsingtao a concrete fort, concealed beneath the slope of the land, is as well constructed and complete as many of the famous dugouts on the Western front. Led by a Chinese guide who carries a one-candle-power lantern, one enters a heavy iron door, descends a few slimy steps, and begins a long walk down a dank stone passageway. The sounding echo of every footfall makes the visitor wonder how the defenders endured the creash of shells from the enemy and the terrible reverberation of their own guns.

Signs in German with arrows marking directions to supply rooms, fresh drinking water, and the hospital chambers are as vivid today as they were six years ago. There is even a blackboard with the words "Morgen," "Mittag," and "Abend," where the names of officers on duty were once posted.

BLOOD STAINS REMAIN

Collapsible mess-tables still hang from the ceilings in the damp barracks rooms, and dark splashes of blood are discernible on the walls of the hospital chambers. Prints of blood-stained hands can be seen where the bunks of the wounded were once ranged, though local cynics suggest that this latter detail was supplied with the aid of red paint and a gory imagination.

Whether this is true or not, the dark narrow room, the faint light held by the grinning Chinese, and the anguished clutch suggested by the shape of the prints leave a memory that is competent to produce more nightmares than half a dozen Cheese Delights.

With but little effort one can visualise the life within the fort when it was under bombardment—the heavy reverberations of the shells, the rush of the stretcher-bearers bringing wounded to the Red Cross chamber, the medical staff working madly with only a rough wooden table for an operating slab, the iron pulleys sending an endless chain of shells to the great guns turreted above, and the commands shouted hoarsely through the speaking tubes connected with the concrete observation posts.

The fort that once held a garrison of over five hundred men is now in charge of one grinning Chinese with missing teeth, who sells picture postcards as a sideline, and is usually tenanted also by a Japanese photographer who takes pictures of tourists seated on one of the large cannon.

The theater of war in Europe was so interesting to the world at large that the smaller military drama staged at Tsingtao received only a few lines in the newspapers. It was not until a contest developed in the Peace Conference that most people even realised the capture had taken

KWANGSI IS BEATEN AND TUCHUN LU QUITS JOB

"Resigns" His Post As Cantonese Close In On Him

KWEIYUEN TAKEN

Sun Yat-sen's Army Holds Former Base Of The Enemy

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 22.—It is officially reported from Wuchow that the Cantonese forces captured Kwaiyuen (Kweihsien) on Wednesday.

General Lu Yung-ting has circularised the announcement of his resignation from the administration of Kwangsi.

Gen. Shun Hung-ying, said to be one of the most trusted Generals of Warlord Lu Yung-ting of Kwangsi who met defeat at the hands of the troops under Gen. Tang Heng in the northern section of this province realising that it is futile to invade this province in view of the repeated success of the Cantonese troops, considers it best to side with the Cantonese in opposition to his former chief, Warlord Lu Yung-ting, says the Canton Times.

In a long telegram to President Sun Yat-sen, Shun Hung-ying announces his independence of Warlord Lu Yung-ting and his sincerity to obey the orders of President Sun Yat-sen. The President is urged to order Gen. Chen Chiung-ming not to send any troops against him as he is now "working in co-operation with the Cantonese Army against their common enemy Lu Yung-ting."

He also announces his assumption of the post of "Commander of the Army to Save Kwangsi," a post which was bestowed upon him "by the people in Kwangsi," for the purpose of ridding the Kwangsi province of the despotic militarist, Lu Yung-ting, under whose rule the people have been forced to suffer untold hardships and poverty.

In conclusion, Shun Hung-yung recommends that the main forces of the Cantonese Army should concentrate in a general attack on Nanning so that the lair of Warlord Lu Yung-ting can be speedily destroyed, while he himself with his troops will move toward the northern section of Kwangsi to attack Kweilin and Liuchow where other Kwangsi troops who are loyal to Lu Yung-ting are stationed. By this means, Shun believes that the fall of the military rule of Kwangsi under Lu Yung-ting can be hastened.

Many Cures Are Reported From Missions Of Healing

By Bruce Hopper

IS the miracle of healing to be restored to man?

The answer to that question is the world-wide program for the revival of physical and spiritual healing in the Christian church, a movement now represented in China by James M. Hickson.

That the lame should be made to walk, the halt recover freedom of physical movement, and those diseased with various ills made pure in body by the simple laying of hands on the heads of the afflicted ones always strikes sceptical people as a too literal interpretation of the scriptures. And yet reports of Mr. Hickson's mission meetings in India tell of casting out devils, curing cripples, and attaining significant results in a tremendous spiritual revival.

Mr. Hickson returned to Shanghai yesterday after a two-months trip to mission stations up the Yangtsze as far as Ichang. Everywhere the Chinese were intensely interested in the simple message of healing, and were reverently attentive to the interpreters who transmitted Mr. Hickson's words of faith. The Chinese clergy are eager to continue the work, and hold meetings to demonstrate the efficacy of prayer.

CHANNEL OF MERCY

The work in which Mr. Hickson is engaged was organised on a world footing at a great convention of 500 bishops and clergy in America, at which Dr. Manning of New York brought forward the resolution to revive healing in the church of Christ as it was carried on in the days of the Apostles. A report of the work done will be made to the conference in 1922.

Mr. Hickson, who had been healing for 20 years in England, was sent out as were Christian fathers of old to act as a channel for divine mercy, to help man in his struggle with ill, to bring spiritual rehabilitation to those who have lost faith in that mercy.

The movement has attained its promise. Every state in the union sent in a call for Mr. Hickson to hold mission meetings, a tour which required 14 months. He then went to Egypt, Ceylon, India, Burma, and South China. Coming to Shanghai in the Spring Mr. Hickson held meetings in Holy Trinity cathedral, and toured Chekiang province via the canal routes, and obtained wonderful results.

ALL DENOMINATIONS JOIN

All barriers of sectarian doctrine are obliterated in the healing work. Mr. Hickson reports that meetings are held in the Coptic churches of Egypt, where he received the blessing of the patriarch, in Syrian churches of southern India, where he addressed 20,000 people at one meeting, in Roman Catholic, Protestant and Quaker missions of the Yangtsze valley.

While in India Mr. Hickson received an invitation from the united medical missionaries of

Many Cures Are Announced From Healing Missions

China to confer with them at Kuling, which meeting was one of the features of his Yangtsze trip. The doctors and nurses opened the hospital doors to him, and joined in prayer meetings with the patients.

One of the reasons for such co-operation is Mr. Hickson's belief that faith healing and medical science go hand in hand. One supplements the other. By laying his hands on a cripple's head, while a priest of the church pronounces the blessing, he is helping the work of the physician.

LEPERS ARE CURED

Although he moves so rapidly from point to point that results of his healing work only reach him by mail Mr. Hickson receives gratifying reports of the great mission. A leper of Hangchow was treated during his visit. The next day the scales fell off the leper's face, and the day following off his body, which seems to indicate a process of cure. Another leper at Changsha has been cured of open sores.

In regard to such cases Mr. Hickson says that if we accept the healing power of Christ as true 1,900 years ago, there is no reason to disbelieve it now. And it must be limitless, and can heal the vileness of leprosy as easily as minor ills.

Not physical, but spiritual healing is the real mission of the revival of Apostolic endeavor. Mr. Hickson values the renewed spirit of prayer more than the results of curing troubles of the body. Religion means more to people, after being imbued with the revival spirit, Christ becomes more real, and the gospel a new gospel.

TO HOLY LAND

The pressing needs of the world program takes Mr. Hickson to Peking Tuesday morning, thence to Korea and Japan. He will stop in Singapore and Egypt. An extensive tour of the Holy Land is planned, in the footsteps of the disciples who were sent to the uttermost parts of the earth. Mr. Hickson will be in Jerusalem for Christmas, and arrive in Paris for the Anglo-American convention in January.

But the spirit of the movement will not leave Shanghai. Prayer circles are held, at which individuals suffering from physical or spiritual troubles are prayed for.

Mr. Hickson will conduct a service in the Holy Trinity cathedral Monday night.

While in Shanghai Mr. Hickson is the guest of Mrs. H. C. Marshall, 72 Szechuen Road.

Brothel Keeper To Appear In Important Test Case Monday

A test case of much importance in connection with the handling of the Chinese brothel problem here will come up in the Mixed Court Monday, when a brothel keeper will stand trial on the charge of breach of license conditions by permitting solicitation on the streets.

Mr. K. E. Newman, appearing for the defendant, has raised the point that the brothel keeper is merely the sub-leasor of rooms to the inmates of the place and is no more liable than hotel keepers are for the outside conduct of guests of their hotels. The case came up yesterday, but, owing to the importance of the issue raised—since great numbers of these cases are brought into court—the Assessor set it down for special hearing, when Counsel will appear for the Council.

Russian Opera Co. In 'Faust' Tonight; 'Carmen' Splendid

Carmen was sung to Shanghai last night in a way not unworthy of the great names of Calve and Farrar.

Miss Burskaya made a beautiful Carmen, a dashing, fascinating, madcap Carmen. She flung the rose with the beau geste of a gypsy queen. She sang the Habanera with a carefree zest that captured the audience as well as Don Jose. She danced on the picturesque streets of old Seville, she swanked about the smugglers' cave, she ended with a flourish of Spanish lace before the arena gates, when jealousy-mad Jose stabbed her. Carmen to the last, defiant, passionate, and wonderful.

Other excellent features helped Miss Burskaya's singing to make Carmen a great success for the Russian Opera company. Mr. Busanovsky, as Don Jose, acted well the shifting role of successful, then disappointed and jealous, lover. The duel scene with Escamillo was made effective by Mr. Busanovsky's acting.

Micaela, played by Miss Osipova, received applause for her solo in the smugglers' cave. The lyric note supplied by her message from home set off in high light the worldly passions of Carmen and the gypsies.

Escamillo, Mr. Pantileef, did not seem to get the Toreador swagger usually displayed in the baritone part.

There was a lack of Carmen liveliness to the first two acts, which were compensated for by the dramatic climax, when Carmen and Don Jose faced each other at the arena.

The management is to be congratulated on the stage setting and costuming. The Seville environment was felt by the audience, the cigarette girls, the dancers, and the smugglers, all portrayed the life of Spain as it is even today.

Tonight the full strength of the Company will be seen and heard in "Faust." Miss Mashir, the "Mimi" of "La Boheme," is to sing the "Marguerite," Danilov will appear as "Faust," with Karlash as "Mephistopheles" and Miss Valentinova as "Sibyl." In addition to this quartet Mr. Radeef will also be in the production which is probably the best the Company does.

The Company is to sing here but three nights more: "Faust" tonight, which should be greeted by a crowded house; "Tosca," on Tuesday night, an opera very popular in Shanghai and "Tales of Hoffman," on Wednesday night. The Company will not sing on Monday night.

For The Kodaker

A little booklet in which amateur photographers will find much to interest them is being issued by Messrs. Burrough Wellcome and Co. It bears the title "Pivotal Points in Photography" and its publishers claim for it that it robs amateur camera work of all its terrors.

The booklet certainly throws much light upon the mysteries of exposure, development and printing—the pivotal points alluded to—a chapter being devoted to each of these steps. A fourth chapter deals with such points as intensification, reduction and tonings in sepia, blue, green, etc., putting the principles of these processes before the reader in a clear and interesting fashion.

Any photographer mentioning this newspaper and sending a postcard to Burrough Wellcome and Co., 44 Szechuen Road, may obtain a copy of "Pivotal Points" post free.

Mixed Court Jottings

Pavli Kravchenko, Russian charged with putting a counterfeit $50 American bank note into circulation, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment by the Mixed Court yesterday and $99 of the $100 furnished by him as bail was ordered turned over to the Chinese exchange shop proprietor who changed the note for that amount. Vladislaw Rusleika, the Lithuanian implicated by Kravchenko as having given him the note, was dismissed. The first accused stated that Rusleika had offered him $25 of the proceeds if he should be able to get the note changed. The second accused said he had received the note in Vladivostok and knew it was worthless. A witness in the case said he knew Kravchenko to be a "rich" man, with property in Vladivostok.

A further remand of one week was ordered yesterday in the case of the coolie charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of a Sikh watchman at the South Manchurian Railway wharf last week. The watchman was beaten by a number of coolies whom he tried to eject from the premises and the remand was granted in order to enable the police to make other arrests.

A hawker was fined $5 yesterday for throwing straw at an aged blind Chinese woman at the Hongkew market. It had been the practise of stallholders at the market to torment the old lady by throwing bits of food at her and a detective assigned to put a stop to it effected the arrest.

One Man Injured In Bomb Throwing At 'Great World'

A hawker was injured and throngs of pedestrians and patrons of the 'Great World' amusement resort were thrown into a panic Thursday evening when a bomb of the cigarettee tin variety was hurled from the top of the amusement building into Avenue Edward VII. The man struck by the flying fragments was only slightly injured. It is believed that the bomb was thrown with the idea of extorting money from the proprietors of the 'Great World."

Three men who had been charged with throwing a bomb at the 'New World' and were tried in the Chinese Military Court have been freed of the charge on account of insufficient evidence, but will be deported to their native places.

place. In the city itself, however, one sees a fort on every hilltop, or rather, one is told that a fort is there, for the defenses blend so perfectly with the rocky hillsides that they are not easily observed even at close range. All of the fortifications bear the scars of shelling, some having been battered by Japanese cannon, while others were demolished in part by the Germans just prior to their surrender.

LONG TUNNELS IN HILL

Though less complete in detail than the defenses on the point, Forts Bismark and Iltis are far larger in size and more interesting because of the magnitude of the excavations. Dank, tortuous galleries extend for two miles under the hills, linking up the system of defense. In Fort Bismark an inscription on the wall dated 1914 proposes a toast to Kaiser Wilhelm and includes a few uncomplimentary remarks about the Allied Powers. Its chambers bear no gory handmarks, but the dark, treacherous passages, the unexpected flights of stone steps, and the peculiar tricks played by the echo would make it a most unpleasant lodging house for anybody with an imaginative temperament. Its concrete roof, which does not rise above the hilltop, is camouflaged by a zigzag design in black and white, and jointed hoods, shaped like a helmet of the Middle Ages, guard the tops of the ventilators. Heavily armored observation posts command the view of sea, sky, and hill that once carried bad tidings to the German forces.

Though the rusty guns look harmless enough now, the stone shaft commemorating the thousands of Japanese dead testify to their former power and the fact that only ninety Germans lost their lives proves that the deserted concrete forts were effective in withstanding for two months the terrific fire of the invading forces.

No Money To Send Students Abroad To Complete Education

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 20.—Mr. Lo Chung-chung, President of the higher Technical College at Tangshan, has applied for permission from the Ministry of Communications to send four graduates, headed by Mr. Chen Kou-chi, to America for continuation courses.

This proposal has been rejected in view of the shortage of funds and the present low rate of exchange with America.

Trieste Wants Goods Of Chinese To Place Them On Exhibition

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 20.—Mr. Chen Chia-luan, Consul at Trieste, has reported to the Peking Government that with a view to promoting Chinese trade there both the Chinese and Italians are anxious to establish a permanent display of Chinese goods.

The Chinese Government has approved this proposal and instructed the Ministries concerned to that effect.

Wedding

MAGEE—BACKHOUSE

On July 10 in the church of the Ascension, Kuling, Miss Faith E. Backhouse of the church of England Mission in Hangchow was married to the Rev John O. Magee of Nanking, formerly of Pittsburg, Pa. The 200 or more guests present felt that the ceremony was an impressively spiritual one. The worshipful little Church was beautifully decorated with large vases of mountain lilies and long streamers of leaves. On both sides of the altar candles were burning, and the bride as she was married was close to some of her best friends who sat in the choir and lead in the singing of two beautiful wedding hymns. After the first of these the bride, clad in a beautiful white satin gown draped with lace, carrying a bouquet of cream-colored lilies, and wearing a veil which hung over her face marched down the aisle with Mr. T. P. Tindall, who gave her away.

She was followed by her maid of honor Miss Pym of the C.M.S., two little flower carriers, Miss Eleanor Howe and Master Aidan Bacon, and 4 ushers. She was met at the chancel steps by the groom with the best man, Mr. J. M. B. Gill. Bishop Molony performed the ceremony and at its close the bride and groom advanced to the altar where they sang with the audience "O Perfect Love," all kneeling. Bishop Roots of Hankow then addressed a few inspirational words to them and gave them his blessing, after which Mrs. Barnes sang a solo while the register was being signed. The wedding party then left the Church to the music of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

A delightful reception was given by Bishop and Mrs. Molony on the lawn of Rev. A. M. Sherman where all their friends had a chance to congratulate the bride and groom before Mr. and Mrs. Magee, the latter now wearing a dainty lawn dress, made their escape in chairs. She was waving a small silk American flag and he carried a little Union Jack, thus showing that the impressive marriage ceremony had united not only their lives but their nations.

After a trip to Japan Mr. and Mrs. Magee will reside in Nanking where they will carry on the evangelistic work in which Mr. Magee has been engaged for several years. They take with them the sincerest wishes of their many friends for a rich unified life of joy and service.

PARIS LANDMARKS GRADUALLY GOING

Buildings Crumble Before March Of Business Or Wear Of Weather

Paris, June 11.—Little by little the ancient landmarks of Paris are beginning to disappear, either through the necessity to extend the business centers or the natural wear and tear of the weather. On the Latin Quarter side of the Seine several buildings adjoining the famous Cour de Dragon are being torn down to make way for a modern tenement, while Montmartre, despite the activities of its newly formed "Free Commune" to protect artistic and historic values, gradually is assuming the aspect of a crowded and boisterous district such as is to be found in any metropolis.

The city fathers of Paris have taken an unusual interest in this problem and are reported to favor the appointment of a special commission to study what buildings are the most representative of the various epochs of the French capital's history, these to be repaired and restored regardless of cost.

One of the first to be protected will be the ancient church of St. Eustache, wherein are buried many of France's most able political and religious characters. The interior of this church is in an exceptionally good state of preservation, but the gargoyles overhanging the streets leading to the central markets are being worn away by the weather so fast that architects consider them a menace to pedestrians. Last week a granite statue fell from the top of the church, barely missing passers-by in the street, while visitors in the Louvre gardens are surprised every day by falling chips of stone from the eaves of the former royal palace.

In order to prevent further losses of these old landmarks it is now reported here that a society known as "Friends of Old Paris" intends asking the Government to appropriate 5,000,000 francs to carry on research and protective work.

Mr. Sanji Muto, the president of the Kanegafuchi Cotton Spinning Company, expressed in an interview the belief that the proposal emanated from the desire to relieve the economic distress throughout the world through retrenchment of armament expenditure and the development of the Orient's hitherto untouched resources, which, he added, would be of the utmost benefit to Japan.

EXPLAINS NEW SHIPS

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 21.—In the House of Commons today, Captain Wedgwood Benn asked whether the contracts for four new capital ships would be suspended pending the Washington disarmament conference.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that the British Government, in replacing absolete ships, did not contemplate a building program in reply to those of other Powers.

As the result of a frank and candid discussion with the principal naval Powers, he continued, it might be possible to avoid anything in the nature of competitive building, but it would be a dereliction of duty on the part of the Admiralty to allow the efficiency, training and morale of the Navy to deteriorate from neglect, and not to provide it with the best material.

"It is also imperative," Mr. Lloyd George added, "to avoid the irrevocable loss of time and building facilities which might make it impossible to maintain our sea security if it should be threatened.

"These are the reasons which make it essential for the Government to proceed with its policy of replacing obsolete capital ships and this necessity is not affected by the possible success or failure of the Washington conference."

LIFE AND DEATH QUESTION

London, July 21.—Mr. Hughes, the Prime Minister of Australia, was today the guest of the American Luncheon Club at the Savoy Hotel.

In the course of a speech, Mr. Hughes said he welcomed President Harding's invitation to a disarmament conference. The question of the Pacific, he pointed out, was one of life and death to Australia. She and America had common interests.

The Washington Conference could only succeed if an agreement were reached regarding the Pacific. Great Britain also had overwhelmingly vital interests in the Pacific, and Australia stood shoulder to shoulder with Great Britain.

Unless America and Japan ceased naval rivalry, Mr. Hughes continued, Great Britain would be compelled to build ships to maintain her position and interests in the Pacific.

It must not be forgotten, the speaker added, that in order to settle the Pacific problem, the interests of Japan as well as those of ourselves must be considered and unless a settlement satisfactory to Japan, America and Great Britain be effected, there can be no hope of a successful conference at Washington.

Sir Joseph Ward, New Zealand, said that New Zealand was with Australia in this matter.

PUBLIC IS STIRRED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 21.—Although the Chinese Government has been extremely reticent regarding President Harding's proposal for the conference regarding Pacific and Far Eastern questions, and the Chinese Press has had to rely almost entirely upon telegrams from abroad for news in that respect, public feeling has been tremendously stirred by the invitation for China to participate in the conference.

From the Waichiaopu practically no information can be obtained but in Chinese semi-official circles it is believed that China will make an effort to secure a final settlement of the Shantung question, and a confirmation of Chinese sovereign rights, such as complete control over post offices, wireless, etc. and that her delegates will endeavor to obtain an official record of the temporary nature of Mixed Court jurisdiction and foreign concessions in China.

That the Government places great importance upon the proposed conference is shown by the fact that Dr. Yen, Minister for Foreign Affairs, may attend the conference himself.

DR. YEN EXPERIENCED

Dr. Wellington Koo's presence in London during the conference is considered almost essential, while Dr. Yen's experience of international affairs and official position, it is held, singularly fit him for the mission. Whether or not his appointment will eventually be made has not yet been decided, but it is under consideration.

So far as China is concerned the negotiations regarding the conference have hitherto consisted of

(1) Informal representations to China, suggesting her participation in the conference relating to Pacific questions, which would probably arise from the discussions on disarmament, and

(2) China's unequivocal expression of readiness to take part if she were permitted to do so on an equal basis.

SOVIET SLIGHTED

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 22.—The Daily Telegraph learns that M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Commissary for Foreign Affairs, has sent a Note to the Powers expressing resentment at the fact that Soviet Russia had not been invited to attend the Pacific Conference at Washington, and stating that therefore any decisions taken will be regarded as null and void.

M. Tchitcherin adds that the prospect of disarmament would fill him with joy if only he could participate therein. Failing the Soviet Government's co-operation, he continues, there will be no guarantee for peace in the Pacific, and her non-representation will add to the danger of future conflicts.

FINNISH NOBLE IS DEAD IN POVERTY

Former Chamberlain To Czar Of Russia, Near Broke, Kills Himself

Paris, June 18.—His wealth gone through his own reckless generosity, Baron Algamar Delinder, a Finnish nobleman and formerly chamberlain to the Czar of Russia, has just ended his life in poverty in a Marseilles hotel. Once worth several millions of dollars, when his funds reached the total of 4,000 francs he opened the veins of his wrist with a penknife.

When a youth Baron Delinder inherited a vast estate. Later he decided to see the world and to pass his life helping others. He told his friends he was guided by a sort of a modern quest for the Holy Grail, although it must be admitted that he passed much of his time in quarters where holiness was not a usual attribute.

After selling all his properties for 30,000,000 florins, he came to France, where he was besieged by his relatives and persons seeking his charity, who came not only from Russia but from all parts of the world. His first gift was 1,000,000 francs to the poor of his own country. Records show that he distributed his charity at the rate of 400,000 francs a day.

Last year Russians in France and in Algeria were astonished to learn that the one time chamberlain of their Czar was no longer wealthy, but was earning a precarious living buying cheap paintings from unknown artists which were to be sold through Commission agents in England.

U. S. AID SAVES FRENCH INFANTS

Millerand Praises Work Of Organisation Founded By Herbert Hoover

Paris, June 11.—Attention has been called by President Millerand's visit to the Lille Exposition to a little heard of American effort in the devastated regions of France—the Infants' Consultation Committee, founded by Herbert Hoover. Growing out of a small organisation founded to aid families whose pride prevented them asking for needed charity, it was extended to provide meals in schools in regions where the poverty existing there would have produced direct results. Clinics and vacation colonies on the northern coast was the next step in its development.

But among the ruined cellars in the devastated regions were found mothers, tired and depressed by their war experiences, giving birth to weaklings, and infant mortality was rising to an unprecedented figure. Nursing mothers were urged to ask the advice of the American committee, at the same time receiving a monthly grant of ten francs for the purchase of meat and milk.

From less than a hundred requests for aid during the first month of the committee's existence, its activities have increased until last month no less than 41,000 infants were aided, while officials of the villages and cities from Somme northward have installed branches under American supervision. Government statistics today prove that the mortality in those districts has been reduced 50 percent.

President Millerand took the keenest interest in the committee's exhibits at the Lille Exposition, particularly the photographs of actual consultations under the shelter of shell-torn ruins. He returned to the exhibit before leaving Lille to express his appreciation of what he termed "the greatest proof yet of America's fraternal liberality."

WIDOW TOLD H.C.L. EXISTS IN HEAVEN

'Voice From Tomb' Insists She Will Run Into Tipping Evil There

Paris, June 8.—Because of her readiness to believe that even in heaven the cost of living had become a serious problem a certain faithful French widow came near being defrauded the other day. Since the death of her husband this woman had made it a rule to make a daily visit to his grave in the Pere Lachaise Cemetery. But one day while placing flowers on the mound she was startled by hearing a voice.

"Up here," the voice called out, "it is the same as upon the earth—everybody wants money. On every hand are people asking for tips. Dear friend, can you let me have 500 francs?"

Having no money with her the woman after struggling to overcome her fear promised to bring some as soon as possible and the voice replied gratefully: "Thank you."

The woman went home and told a neighbor of her remarkable experience. The neighbor thought a while and then advised the widow to do what the voice had requested, but the neighbor also went to the authorities and let them in on the secret.

Gathering together the necessary 500 francs the widow piously placed the money on the grave in a purse and went away. When she was out of sight a young man stepped out from behind a nearby tombstone and took up the purse. But the next thing he knew a policeman had him by the collar.

It turned out that the young man was a nephew of the widow, but at the trial that followed she forgave him and withdrew the charges when the young man's wife with a baby in her arms appealed to the widow for mercy. Now the poor widow feels sure that she has silenced forever the voice from the tomb.

Morgans Float Loan Of Fifty Millions On Bonds Of France

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 21.—Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Sons announce that the fifty million dollars French loan, offered recently, has been placed and that the subscription list is now closed.

This loan was offered some two months ago and Wall Street was openly betting that even the powerful Morgan house could not float it, so many other offerings of foreign bonds having been made just before the French borrower came. That it has taken nearly two months to absorb such an insignificant (for a banker) sum is indicative that the acute indigestions of foreign bonds in the United States still persists.

Chinese Exercised Over Establishment Of Stock Exchanges

The formation of Chinese stock exchanges is furnishing the topic for much discussion in the Chinese press. A report yesterday stated that the City Magistrate has received an order from the Nanking Board of Industry containing instructions from the Civil Governor to the effect that the Provincial Assembly has decided stock exchanges shall not be permitted to deal in grain.

The local silk and satin merchants are exercised over an advertisement in local papers announcing that several Hangchow merchants are to open a silk and satin exchange in Shanghai. A meeting has been called to discuss the matter.

The tea merchants guild is also excited over a report that a tea exchange is being organised by certain men not in the tea trade without the approval of the guild. The guild has wired the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce and, at a meeting, has decided that if a tea exchange is to be opened it shall be established by the merchants themselves.

German Cargoes Off For South America

Berlin, June 18.—Despite the trade crisis fortune is smiling on Hugo Stinnes, whose ships Hindenburg, Ludendorff, and Tirpitz have been put in service to carry German cargoes from Hamburg to South America. The Hinderburg has already arrived with the first cargo and her sister ship, the Ludendorff, is leaving Hamburg shortly. The Ludendorff, which is of 12,200 tons and a single stacker, with the most modern equipment, will carry a full cargo of portland cement and will alternate by carrying paper machines and tools.

Owing to the fact that coal is half as costly in Germany as in South America the ships are carrying enough coal for a round trip. This, combined with the low wages of the sailors, permits Germany to underbid American steamship lines.

LAWN BOWLS CLUBS MEET ON MANY RINKS THIS AFTERNOON IN WALLACE CUP COMPETITION

Four Teams From Each Club Playing In Tournament Today For Coveted Trophy; Junior Golf Club And Recs Are Mentioned As Standing Out To Win

BY "THE SHOT"

The process of elimination in the open championships goes merrily on and with it comes the usual surprises. The rink game on Wednesday night was everything a lawn bowler could desire, even to the spectacular finish.

In the early stages it looked as if the Recs four would win handsomely, as they led by eight points at the twelfth end, and right up to this point Shaw had bowled like a demon, ably assisted by Sam Marks.

From this point Shaw's luck seemed to leave him and the holders crept up until they were 15 all. At the 21st end they again peeled, mainly owing to a beautifully delivered wood of C. M. Bain's who saved two shots when the Recs were lying three and game.

The extra head was played in approaching darkness, and amidst great excitement the big club captured the odd point. Of the winners I liked Mr. MacAllum the best, while Buckley and their popular skip were always there or thereabouts.

Jack Shaw was simply wonderful until the 14th end, as he saved time and again. Guy was not in his accustomed deadly mood, while Eek did not seem to find the green to his liking. Sam Marks played a very sound game throughout.

The Recs still have a couple of good rinks left in and though Ackerman's crowd look rather modest on paper, I can assure you that no opponent must take them too lightly in the single. Alec Braid played a fine game when defeating Wooten at Hongkew Park. Jim Hayward is also showing a glimpse of his old form, and his defeat of Banham on the latter's ground was very creditabe, as at one time Banham led 18-9 and looked all over a winner. Such, however, is the glorious uncertainty of this popular pastime, and it does not do to slack up for a moment until the marker has called game.

An interesting game takes place today when the Wallace Cup is decided. The conditions of this match is that four rinks are entered from each club, none of which are allowed to play on their own ground. I think the winners will be either the Juniors or Recs. The following is the draw. Commence at 3.30 p.m.

T. Poignand (skip) vs. G. B. Stormes (skip), S.L.B.C. ground.

G. Manwaring (skip) vs. C. Richards (skip), Hongkew ground.

J. Shaw (skip) vs. A. D. Bell (skip), Wayside ground.

R. J. Bowerman (skip) vs. A. Macgregor (skip), Hongkew ground.

Ross Young (skip) vs. R. C. Aitkenhead (skip), S.L.B.C. ground.

D. MacAlister (skip) vs. G. Dunlop (skip), Wayside ground.

T. Spring (skip) vs. J. MacDougall (skip), S.R.C. ground.

A. Malcolm (skip) vs. O. Crewe-Read (skip), S.R.C. ground.

The Juniors pay a visit to the S. L. B. C. on Sunday and looking over the teams a good match should be the result. The result of their meeting earlier in the season is still ranking in the minds of the homesters and I understand they are going all out to get back those two points and with a little interest. Let's hope for a fine day. The following is the teams: Commence 3:30 sharp.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

SLIM PICKENS MADE GINK STEP

It Took Roughtown Hero More Than Minute To Bring Across The Ether Punch

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Sir:

It is our infirm belief that Roughtown was settled by slackers driven out of Tuffville. That town was four octaves tougher than wire whiskers. Slim Pickens was the duke of our boys. He had a fist like a wet bag of Portland cement. His ancestors introduced navy beans into the navy. Tough? He was a scout in the Indian wars. Met four Indians. One ran toward east, one west, one south and one north. Slim chased them all at once. The night he fought Gink Fowler, he knocked Gink back into General Coxey's last parade. Yours, hoping for an oily reply,

C. E. HUNT,
Indianapolis.

The world won't be infallible until chewing gum slot machines work the first time. Slim Pickens did make an attempt to put the slug on Gink. But it was like a sack of oats fighting a hungry hoss. Ging ran around him like a secret around a sewing circle. It was as one-sided as a one-legged rocking chair.

Slim met the Roughtown impresario on the night that Gink was fighting 'em fifteen or no count. That meant he had to put the buildoze on fifteen birds or the deadheads would get their complimentary tickets back. Slim was the fifteenth waffle to step up for the soothing syrup. Gink measured him for a form fitting punch on the nose, but Slim fooled the wise money by absorbing punches like a commutation ticket.

Gink showed him everything in stock, like a grocer waiting on a cash customer. It looked like Gink wouldn't get the credit for the first fourteen he had autopsied. Slim was hanging on like a fly on a web. The fight was stopped while they poured water on Gink's elbows. Slim was taking everything Gink had and looking disappointed.

Roughtown was in an uproar. The news spread that an unknown was staying more than three seconds with the champ. The Stock Exchange suspended pocket picking for a day. The State Jail declared a half holiday. State bank examiners ordered the Roughtown Bank closed for repairs to the cashier's honesty. Waltzing mice ran around in circles. An unknown was staying a minute with the camp.

By his glorious battle against underwhelming odds, Slim made his name famous wherever epitaphs are read. Gink put the tap on him in the second minute of the fight and spun him like a pair of loaded bones.

Another beautiful massacre was over, and the Roughtown champion was still monarch of the padded cell.

He was a jolly little beggar. A pleasant time was had by all.

Sports Correspondence

Shanghai, July 22, 1921.

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: This morning I read with considerable interest the article by "British Expert" why the Australians could only draw with Scotland and the weaker sides.

Your "Expert" loses sight of the fact the Australians could declare their innings closed at any time they wished after making say 350 runs and then have two days to get their opponents out.

No. The reason of these big scores by the Australians against counties not in the first flight, is they want every man to have a chance of batting so they may be in form for the Test Matches and other big games. Further it gives the bowlers a rest, which the Australians need as they have a very heavy program.

M. A. Noble, the great Australian cricketer said that Col. Douglas, the English Captain made a great mistake in Australia when he did not let the whole side bat right through in the minor matches, and so let his men get used to the wickets.

You may rest assured that Warwick Armstrong is not going to make the same mistake as the English Captain.

Yours faithfully,
CRICKETER.

Yorkshire All Out For 126; Australians Batting Cautious

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 21.—The match between the Australians and Yorkshire was resumed today in sunny weather before an attendance of some 16,000 spectators. The wicket was in good condition.

Yorkshire, whose score stood at 29 for one wicket when stumps were drawn yesterday, were all out for 126, Holmes and Burton contributing 26 and 31 respectively. Gregory took three wickets for 42 runs and McDonald three for 31.

The Australians compiled 136 for seven wickets before close of play, Macartney making 33. The Australian batting was most cautious, and scoring was difficult owing to the very keen fielding of the Yorkshire team.

In first-class matches concluded today; At Maidstone: Kent beat Gloucestershire by ten wickets; at Worcester: Hampshire beat Worcestershire by ten wickets.

NINTH CAVALRY NINE WILL PROBABLY PLAY HERE EARLY IN AUGUST; DIAMONDS LATER

Colored Team Series Practically Assured; Diamonds Or Other Japanese Team To Follow; Shanghai To Play Wilmington Today And Hongkew Japanese Sunday

The Ninth Cavalry baseball team it can be almost positively stated will be in Shanghai early in August for a series of five or more games with the Shanghai Baseball club. And there is an excellent prospect that the Osaka Diamond team will come to Shanghai later for a series, or should that be not possible, another team of Japanese of the same calibre will be procured.

The management of the Shanghai Baseball club last night was in receipt of information to the effect that while this port was not originally included in the Cavalry itinerary when their team left Manila, it was not at all unlikely that this city could be added to the Cavalry tour and the series played.

The local management and the whole local baseball community has considered it a mistake that Shanghai was not included in the Cavalry itinerary. Local fans are eager to have the colored team brought here for a series, and have indicated a willingness to support the series in every possible way. Shanghai managers have exerted every effort to obtain the Cavalry series and are now practically assured that it will be played.

The Diamond team which is playing now in Tientsin is booked on a schedule that takes it to Peking, Dairen and Korea. It is hoped to bring the team to Shanghai after the Dairen series, which would be about the middle of August, after the conclusion of the Cavalry series. If it not be possible to get the Diamond team for Shanghai the management has in mind another strong Japanese team. The South Manchuria Railway nine from Dairen, rated as the best Japanese team in North China, may be gotten in the event that the Osaka nine cannot extend its tour.

TODAY'S GAME

Shanghai and the Navy will mix again at baseball this afternoon. The navy will be represented by the gunboat Wilmington, which arrived in port yesterday from Hankow. The game commences at 3:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow the long-waited game between the Shanghai Baseball Club and the Shanghai Japanese Baseball club will be played. The game will commence at 4 p.m. The Japanese club tomorrow is putting in the field a nine selected from seven of the best teams which have been playing all summer at Hongkew park. It should represent the cream of Japanese baseball talent and strength in Shanghai. The game should be well worth attending.

The Japanese picked team, in its seven different uniforms was out at the Race Course diamond last evening for a final workout on the grounds where Sunday's game will be fought out. They showed the usual flashy, snappy style so typical of the Japanese baseballer. They may not size up to the Osaka Diamond nine which played here in the Olympics, and which the local management is now trying to bring here from Tientsin, but they know the game.

Actual Conditions Show High Hand In Shantung

Property Seized In Many Cases Without Any Compensation To Chinese Owners

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 18.—In view of the coming Pacific Conference and the growing importance of the Shantung question in relation to that conference, your correspondent has obtained from its own sources in Shantung a detailed report of Japanese occupation of lands both public and private and of the occupation of buildings.

When the territory around Kiaochow was leased to Germany and the latter received rights to build certain railroads solely for improving commercial conditions, it was stipulated that no land was to be seized and that no more property was to be bought or rented by Germans in the rail zone than was actually necessary to carrying out the project.

Those who have compiled the report given today, have investigated the conditions in the cities and villages and they made every effort to make their report accurate. The report shows the condition as of October, 1920.

The investigators claim that in their work they discovered many instances in which territory that had some special value, was added to the territory known as the rail zone, and that occupation by the Japanese has extended to all parts of the province though the chief activities are in the railroad section. Special functions of government have been executed by the Japanese, the investigators say, and land has been seized without compensation. This has been done, it is said, in violation of the law that foreigners outside the rail zone are not permitted to own property.

BELIEVE LAW OBSERVED

The investigators point out that it is generally believed by foreign countries that the Chinese law is being observed outside the leased territory and the rail zone.

These lands either purchased or seized outside the specified zones have been improved by buildings in many cases while in others, Chinese occupants moved out and Japanese moved in.

Following is the first installment of the report:

Tsinanfu: Fifteen merchant buildings have been rented or built on purchased property including the Yui-Ling-Kung-Si. Five places near Chulanfu were seized forcibly and 52 mow of land including a parcel of government property in a river bed were taken by Japanese guards. Five other pieces of land owned by citizens were seized and used for erection of buildings.

Changshan: Houses owned by Liu Shuih-ching and containing about 60 chiens were rented for residential purposes by Japanese and ten Japanese merchants rented buildings. Seven pieces of land were purchased from an owner named Wang Chi-hsien. A residential area which belonged to Chow Teh-shan was seized and the Japanese built houses thereon.

140 MOW SEIZED

Wuantai or Changtien: Eighty-three merchant buildings have been rented by the Japanese or built on sites or older buildings while 112 mow of land were purchased from Ken Shing-pu and others. Land on the Shin Yuanchuan border was occupied by force and fortifications were built. A tract of land consisting of 140 mow was seized and arbitrarily added to the railroad zone.

Liuchuan: Twenty-three places consisting of 280 chiens and 24 merchant buildings were bought or rented. Two pieces of vacant land were seized without pay from Wang Wei-fang and the Japanese built houses thereon.

Ling Liu: Here about 60 mow of land were seized by the Japanese and arbitrarily added to the railroad zone. The report says that no arrangement of any kind was made with the owners. This is along the Ching Lin-cheng railroad.

TAKE DRILL GROUND

Changyi: Four merchant houses and three residences were rented by the Japanese while a portion of land owned by Kao Shih-jui and others, was seized and converted into a drill ground for Japanese troops.

Yi Tu (or Chingchow): Japanese merchants rented 26 houses in this place. Twenty-five pieces of land were rented or purchased by Japanese from Fong Teh-shan and others and used for business houses and dwelling sites. Eleven pieces of land were occupied by force. This belonged to Yu Lung-kwan and consisted of about 300 mow. It was seized for the use of the railroad.

Chang Loh: Several merchant places were rented by Japanese firms while a Japanese force occupied 30 parcels of land and used it for storage of telegraph poles.

Weihsien: Seventy-eight residences consisting of 450 rooms and more than 80 business buildings were rented by the Japanese while land belonging to the local road improvement bureau in fifteen places was bought for use as building sites. More than 10 mow of land was occupied at Wuchiah and used for target practice and 20 mow were seized for railroad uses.

Anchiu: Two business buildings were rented by Japanese merchants.

Kaomieh: Fifteen business buildings including that occupied by the Far Eastern Tobacco Co., were rented and fifty residents were rented by new Japanese arrivals, from a Mr. Li Wen-feng wealthy real estate owner. In addition a building in Ku Chen consisting of 155 chiens and situated on 140 mow of land, was seized and used for barracks and a police building.

TAKEN BY FORCE

Chiaohsien: Several business buildings were rented and are occupied principally by the Shimizu firm. Soldiers and police occupied by force a building belonging to Yueh-Lai-Kung-Si and used it as a headquarters for the Japanese military police and for a Japanese post office. Thirteen other parcels of land were seized by force and used for storing telegraph poles.

Chimu: Five business buildings were rented here by Japanese merchants. Repeated demands by the Chinese Government against the occupation of land by force and its purchase in districts where foreigners except missionaries are now permitted to hold land, have met with no response from the Japanese.

It is believed that one of the reasons China has so steadfastly refused to consider direct negotiations concerning the return of Shantung, is the widespread occupation by Japanese. According to these reports the withdrawal of Japanese military guards from the rail zones will not go far toward restoring full control to China even outside the original leased territory. It is the claim that many of these occupations violate the agreement entered into between China and Germany and which Japan, as Germany's successor, is supposed to observe.

Dairyman Fined $50 For Watering Milk

The licensee of the Oong Ta dairy, Hungjao Road, was fine $50 at the Mixed Court yesterday for adulteration of milk.

Evidence was given by Inspector Prideaux, of the Municipal Health Department, that a sample of milk taken from one of defendant's distributors was found to be adulterated with 5.3 percent of added water.

This was the first time the defendant was before the Court but he was cautioned last month by the Health Department on account of his milk being adulterated with 7 percent of added water. The Inspector said that this showed of how little value these cautions were; nothing but bringing offenders before the Court was effective. The dairyman pleaded in his defense that he was away at the time the offence was committed.

The assessor warned the accused that if he is brought to court again he will be fined $100.

Troops Of Hunan Not Willing To Move In Canton's Campaign

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 20.—General Chao Heng-ti, Tuchun of Hunan, is reported to have got himself into an unpleasant position through having promised agents of Canton to support Kwangtung in its action against Kwangsi.

Later on he appears to have held aloof until pressed by Canton agents when he issued a proclamation giving orders for his troops to assist Kwangtung. The troops, however, have not moved and, it is reported, show no disposition to do so.

Premier Chin Yung-peng has addressed an apology to Lu Yung-ting, warlord of Kwangsi, for being unable to assist him in his defense against the Kwangtung forces. Lu's departure from Nanning for Haiphong has been confirmed by a telegram circulated by himself.

Ninth Cavalry Nine Will Probably Play Here Early

and will furnish a fine afternoon's entertainment.

The managers of the selected Japanese Hongkew nine were not prepared last night to announce the names of the men who will play in Sunday's game against Shanghai; the nine had not yet been finally picked. They promised however to give Manager Ross this morning a definite line-up. It will be available for tomorrow's issue so that fans Sunday may have with them the regular pink sheet and know the players by name as they play on it.

No hint has been given out as yet as to who will work for Shanghai either today or tomorrow. Merrill, it was said yesterday at the Navy Pay office was out of town on a week-end vacation, and would not return until Monday, so he will not pitch in either game. Terry, Arlt, and Dennison remain available. Arlt worked last, so Terry, who has been slowly rounding into shape will probably be used today with Hoag backstopping, and Dennison and Roeser forming the battery tomorrow.

THE TIENTSIN TOURNEY

The third day of the Tientsin tournament found the All Star aggregation defeating the Diamond team by a score of 3 to 1. Ikawa and Mori formed the Japanese battery while Bame and Madge of the Army worked for the Stars. The Japanese got but two safeties off Bame's delivery and to Bame's pitching the Tientsin papers give credit for the win. Ikawa gave out six hits.

The Ninth Cavalry nine was scheduled to oppose the 15th Infantry for the fourth game of the series. The Manila men have been attracting much attention in their workouts, and are figured to finish high in the finals of the 16 days of play.

Summer Step-Savers

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,

The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

AT no other season of the year does the housewife find the labor of serving meals so irksome as the one now beginning, for after the cooking itself she finds the additional rising and waiting most fatiguing in the warm weather.

As everybody knows, maids are scarce and expensive, but luckily for us there are many good mechanical substitutes for the human worker. Indeed, housekeepers who have learned to use some of these devices or methods for self-service now prefer them to a flesh-and-blood maid, even if they could secure her.

Many are the types of wheel trays, which will not only serve but clear away an entire meal with a single round trip between kitchen and dining room. The best of these are oblong, with trays about two and a half feet by eighteen inches, and have three tiers or trays, one above the other, allowing one shelf for each service or course.

An excellent model is made of light oak, mounted on castors and with a handle at either end, so that it may be grasped and shoved quickly from place to place. A small drawer in one side and a separate glass tray enable one to keep silver in it and to pass a sanitary tray to any guest.

Another model is collapsible, like a folding perambulator, with a much longer handle at one end which allows it to be pushed like a baby carriage. This also has three shelves. Another type which bids fair to gain in popularity has "drop leaves" on either side which may be lifted up, thus making an oval small table of it. This tray is especially suitable to a small apartment, where it may serve as the only dining table.

A tray with three wheel-feet, having but two trays, and those of metal, is also excellent, but requires more care in steering and does not offer as large a service space.

Let us suppose that the meal is to be served on a regular dining table and that the tray is to act as "maid" for some simple meal, such as a hot bouillon, a warm meat dish, a cold salad and a cold dessert. The table is set in the usual way; if there is room, many of the small accessories, such as butter, bread, relishes, etc., may be placed on the table, but it is often as convenient to place them on one shelf of the tray.

Before announcing the meal, lay the meat dish and any hot vegetable on the table. Have the salad on the second shelf of the wheel tray and the dessert on the lower shelf, together with crackers and the pitcher or other beverage. Just before asking the family or guests to be seated, place the hot bouillon on each service plate. Then "dinner is served!"

The time consumed in taking the bouillon is so short that the meat and hot vegetable should not have cooled. The hostess may gracefully ask each guest in turn to pass the empty cup to her. She will lay them on the top shelf of the wheel-tray, left unused for the purpose. The host then serves the second course on plates which were standing, heated, at his right. The same request to have the soiled plates passed to either end will bring the meal to the salad course, and this will easily be lifted from the tray and passed.

The same procedure is followed with the dessert, thus making it possible for the hostess to serve a meal to at least six persons, and even eight, without once rising from the table, since the soiled dishes of each course are laid on the shelf from which the ensuing course is removed.

A novel use for the small, inexpensive and very practical electrical "disc" stove is for keeping foods warm at the table. Most of these stoves have two or three different degrees of heat. The plan is to place the hot course in covered dishes and lay these on the disc stove turned to "low" when the meal is begun. An asbestos mat between the stove and the serving dish will add to the safety; but glass and earthenware dishes, also those of aluminum, are perfectly safe on such a stove without it and will keep hot for quite fifteen minutes.

A hot dessert may be similarly kept warm by placing the serving dish containing it on a disc stove on the lowest shelf of the wheel-tray, which should stand at the hostess' left.

A most helpful step-saver in table service is the revolving disc or circular table stand often called a "lazy Susan." This is made of glass about eighteen inches in diameter, mounted on a low stand of ornamental nickel. This glass is so adjusted that the slightest touch revolves it in any direction.

In the past such a "Susan" was used chiefly for relishes, butter, fruit, etc., but it is possible to employ it in the service of a whole meal with excellent results. The foods are placed on the table in the usual way, but when the host has carved a portion and filled a plate he places this on the "Susan" and gently turns the glass until the filled plate is exactly opposite the person for whom it is intended. When the guest has finished eating or desires a second helping he lays his plate on the "Susan" and turns it back to the host or to the hostess, at whose side the wheel-tray awaits the soiled dishes.

(Photograph by LEWIS-SMITH.)

Such a "silent servant" makes any meal serving a pleasure, since it avoids the awkward passing back and forth of the usual service without a maid. It adds greatly to the charm of a table and is especially helpful and picturesque for afternoon tea. The hostess possessed of both a "Susan" and a wheel-table can serve her meals far more attractively than even the most expert waitress. Such service also makes for privacy and the full enjoyment of lingering at the table.

The work of meal getting in Summer can be made much easier by serving each person's entire meal on a tray, a la cafeteria. This plan works excellently in small families or where there are children, or for informal meals in hot weather. The idea is to have one tray for each person and lay on it everything needed for his entire meal, just as if he were an invalid.

The advantages of this plan are many. It saves setting of the table and also enables the use of small portions. By doing all the cutting or serving in the kitchen, a la Russe, no large serving dishes have to be washed. Tray meals offer unusual opportunities for decorative effects and for picturesque arrangements of salads and other Summer foods. Last, but not least, as one housekeeper tells me, it saves in food, because the individual service is always less expensive than large general carving, and because it permits the use of "left-overs" to advantage.

How To Reduce

By Lina Cavalieri,

The Most Famous Living Beauty.

HEAVINESS may be due perhaps to heredity. This is a very great factor, and when it is the case reduction often becomes exceedingly difficult. On the other hand, fatness may be due to a diseased gland or secretive vessel in the brain region.

Perhaps overeating, or, more generally, careless eating and lack of exercise, have more to do with creating a bulky, fat figure than any other one group of causes. Abundance of starches and sugars and fats in the diet is guilty of producing many masses of fatty tissue.

The common method of reduction, and perhaps the most efficient way, is through the modified diet and increased exercise. This cannot be employed except when the individual is strong and hearty. Otherwise the modified diet renders the person weak and faint and prevents her from doing her best mental or physical work.

When starches and fats are cut down to a minimum the mechanism is sustained by the surplus fat stored away in the tissues. If dieting, however, is carried to excess, and employed when the mechanism is faint and weak, not only the surplus fat is used for energy, but the tissues which constitute the muscles become impaired. A general breakdown of health is very liable to follow such a condition.

The woman who would have a shapely figure and wishes to reduce some of the fat that seems to mar it should continue her diet for two weeks to twenty days at a time, after which she should increase it so as to get renewed strength and energy. The following are some of the most efficient diets employed for the purpose of removing surplus fat:

The milk-cure is one of the simplest known diets, and with a doctor's permission may be used even in the event of disease of the heart or kidneys. It is particularly effective for persons who have an abundance of abdominal fat.

One pint of milk is drunk for breakfast. For lunch you eat six ounces of lean meat with green vegetables, as spinach, green peas, string beans, lettuce. No bread or potatoes are used. If desired, you may substitute for the green vegetables turnips, parsnips, cabbage, Brussels sprouts or carrots. One-half pint of milk, two glasses of water or a cup of tea with a little sugar complete this meal.

For five o'clock tea, if you have time, drink one-half pint of milk or two cups of tea with a little sugar, or both. For supper take one pint of milk and two apples, cooked or raw.

If you do not wish to indulge in the midday meal, and if you are always at home, you may drink only one pint of milk if you think you are strong enough to do without the rest of the things. In this instance you may also drink eight to nine glasses of milk a day, with only apples, tea and water.

A negative form of diet, which contains from a third to a little over one-half the food value required by a normal person weighing 150 pounds, excludes the following:

White potatoes (except in small amount), bread, crackers, cereals, macaroni, vermicelli, spaghetti, sago, tapioca, cornstarch, sweet potatoes, shell beans, dried peas or beans, corn and nuts.

Sugar, candy, dried fruits, syrups, fruit preserves, honey, marmalade and sweet sauces.

Pork, bacon, goose, sausage, croquettes.

Shad, fresh salmon, eels, sardines, mackerel, bluefish and fried fish.

Butter, cream, olive oil, lard, fat meat and fish.

Ices, rich puddings, cake.

Chocolate, alcoholic drinks (except claret and Rhine wines), thick soups, milk, cheese, pickles, condiments.

Drink water only between meals, in the morning and at bedtime. Water during meals increases the appetite and makes food absorption quicker, thus tending to destroy some of the effects of the diet.

Besides a restricted diet, exercise is exceedingly effective in removing fat. Swimming, riding and golf are all good sports as well as good exercise. Walking three-quarters of an hour in the morning and one-half hour in the afternoon or evening is a simple but good method of reduction.

Massage is a good way to reduce local fatty tissue, as on the abdomen. In order to make this effective, it must be very vigorously done. Raising the legs slowly until perpendicular with the bed and allowing them to fall slowly is a splendid exercise for this purpose.

Secrets of Beauty

I AM extremely anxious to increase my height. How can I do it?—BERTHA.

Eat an abundance of nourishing food. Drink a great deal of milk and take regular out-of-door exercises. Also go to a gymnasium and practice stretching exercises daily.

I AM greatly annoyed by excessive perspiration under my arms. What can I do for it?—MISS R. G.

Are you always careful to bathe under the arms thoroughly every night? A simple deodorant powder like the following should also be applied every morning immediately before dressing:

|---|---|
| Pulverized alum | ½ ounce |
| Subnitrate of bismuth | 1 ounce |
| Pulverized boric acid | ¼ ounce |
| Oil of eucalyptus | 10 drops |
| Oil of rose geranium | 5 drops |
| Oil of lemon | 5 drops |

AM seventeen years old and have many blackheads and also a few pimples. Have tried hot and cold baths and used the best of soaps with no result. My skin is very oily, too.—CORNELIA F.

To overcome that oiliness bathe the skin frequently with witch hazel or a few drops of tincture of benzoin in a basin of tepid water. To get rid of those wholly unnecessary blemishes of the skin be more careful of your diet. Do not indulge too often in candy and sweet desserts. Avoid heavy meats. A plain vegetable diet will work wonders in improving the complexion. But if, in spite of this treatment, the trouble still persists then try daily applications of this remedy:

|---|---|
| Salicylic acid | 50 grams |
| Pure lard | 50 grams |

MY lovely hair is coming out very badly. Can you help me?—E. L. S.

Shampoo the hair with castile soap and warm water and afterward apply the following tonic, rubbing it well into the scalp with the tips of the fingers:

|---|---|
| Fluid extract of pilocarpin | ½ dram |
| Quinine | 1½ drams |
| Sulphur | 2 drams |
| Balsam of peru | 6 drams |

WILL you kindly suggest some harmless lotion or massage cream that will help make my breasts larger?—S. Q. R.

Build up your system by eating more nourishing foods and by some form of daily out-of-door exercises that will make you perspire heavily. Also, every night before retiring massage this region very gently with the following emollient cream:

|---|---|
| Olive oil | 2 ounces |
| Pure starch | 1 ounce |
| Lanolin | 1 ounce |

WHY is it that some women have pretty, well-turned ankles and others, equally fine-looking in other ways, have such thick, ugly ones?—L. W.

A question of heredity, my dear. We inherit shapely ankles just as we inherit long, tapering fingers or a well-moulded arm. But, sometimes, it is merely the lack of daily use and the absence of proper care that allows the feet and ankles to grow so shapeless and ugly. Dancing, playing tennis, climbing and swimming will all help increase the real beauty of the foot and ankle. Even walking several miles every day will go far to increase their symmetry.

Some Good News for Homely Folks

DON'T feel too discouraged because you have not been blessed with good looks. Probably you'll be all the happier for lack of them. At any rate, it's certainly true that the happiest married couples are almost always the plainest and homeliest of men and women.

There are many good reasons why a beautiful, doll-baby face and handsome, manly features are a positive handicap to happiness in marriage.

The husband and wife who are "stunning lookers" are always watching one another, and the embers of suspicion which their good looks keep smoldering are liable to blaze up at any moment into a destructive flame of jealousy. And the danger is all the greater when either husband or wife is handsome and the other plain.

Now with the man and woman who are both as "homely as hedge fences" it is all quite different. Their lack of beauty reduces the danger from jealousy to a minimum. They can see the other receive attentions from a third without being haunted by the fear that physical charm is exerting a fascination which is going to wreck their matrimonial ship.

And how much happier the homely husband and wife are in other ways! Having no standard of good looks to which they must always live up, they don't have to be forever worrying about their appearance. Instead of spending so much time in primping, they can settle down to solid enjoyment of the good things of life.

They accept cheerfully the fact that they are plain and find in it reasons a-plenty for being all the happier. The homely man is not afraid to run his own automobile or chop his own wood, and the homely woman can do her own work if the maid happens to leave suddenly.

The homely man and woman go through life as enjoyably as children who dress in their oldest clothes to go for a romp on the beach. The good-looking couple miss as much enjoyment as the unfortunate little folks who don't dare to play in the sand for fear of soiling their white linen suits or getting their hair out of curl.

Helpful Household Hints

Cleaning Gilt Frames.

AN oiled duster should never be used on gilt or bronze frames.

Washing China.

DON'T use very hot water or much soap in washing china that has much gilt on it.

Fireproof Clothes.

CHILDREN'S clothing can be made non-inflammable by rinsing in alum water, two ounces of alum dissolved in a gallon of water.

Clean Wringers.

WHEN the rollers of a clothes-wringer become darkened through use rub them with kerosene and then wash thoroughly.

Washing Bottles.

THE sediment in water-bottles or cruets can be easily removed by rinsing thoroughly with a little hydrochloric acid, followed by clear water or ammonia water.

Cleaning Baskets.

REED and willow baskets are best cleaned by rubbing with a stiff brush. If not waxed they may be scrubbed with soapy water, rinsed and dried.

Dusting Books.

TO dust books thoroughly they must be clapped vigorously in different places, their pages snapped and then wiped all over with a dusting cloth.

Spring Luncheon Dishes

By Mary Lee Swann,

The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Bacon Curls

ROLL bacon and secure in place by sticking with a tooth pick. Fry in hot deep fat and drain on unglazed paper.

Chicken, Cadillac Style.

MIX ¾ cup cooked chicken, cut in cubes, with ¼ cup cooked ham, cut in cubes, and 1 cup thick white sauce. Pour into buttered individual casserole dishes. Place 3 or 4 hot buttered asparagus tips on each dish. Reheat and serve.

Cold Lamb With Spinach.

THINLY slice cold roast lamb and arrange the slices around a chop plate so that they will overlap. In the centre of the dish place individual moulds of seasoned chopped hot spinach. Make a little nest in the top of each mould of spinach and place a poached egg in each nest. Dot the eggs with melted butter.

Chicken Loaf.

COOK 1 cup soft bread crumbs in ½ cup milk until pasty. Add 2 cups minced cooked chicken, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ teaspoon onion juice and a bit of finely chopped parsley if desired. Add 3 well-beaten egg yolks and fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a buttered mould and place in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven until firm in centre. Serve hot or cold.

Tongue Salad.

MIX 2 cups diced cold tongue with 2 cups cooked green peas. Add 2 tablespoons salad oil, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon curry powder (if the taste is not objectionable), 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon paprika. Mix gently so that the peas may not lose their shape. Add 1 tablespoon vinegar and enough cooked dressing to moisten. Arrange on heart lettuce leaves, pour a little dressing on top of each serving and garnish with hard cooked eggs.

Corn Oysters With Bacon Curls.

MIX 1 can corn which has cooked gently 15 or 20 minutes with 1¾ teaspoons salt a dash of paprika, 2 tablespoons milk, ¾ cup fine bread or cracker crumbs and 1 well-beaten egg. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot frying pan, which has been well greased with bacon fat. Brown on one side, then turn and brown delicately on the other. Serve with bacon curls and garnish with parsley.

Chicken Salad.

MIX 2½ cups cooked chicken, cut in small cubes, with 1 cup diced celery and enough cream dressing to moisten. Arrange in nests of heart lettuce leaves. Finely chopped olives may be added to salad. Decorate with dressing and radish roses, stuffed olives, chopped capers or any other desired garnish. Cream dressing for chicken salad should be made with chicken stock as a foundation.

Tournedoes of Lamb.

CUT 5 or 6 lamb chops 2 inches thick. Remove the fat and bone and skewer the lean portion into circular pieces. Secure a thin strip of bacon around each piece, taking care to have bacon overlap. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake in a hot oven about 15 minutes. Serve with mint jelly and garnish with parsley and potatoes prepared as follows: Finely chop 1 tablespoon watercress and 1 teaspoon mint leaves and add to 2 cups of well-seasoned mashed potatoes.

Stuffed Egg Salad.

CUT 6 eggs in halves lengthwise. Remove the yolks and mix with 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon tomato catsup, ¼ cup finely chopped stuffed olives and salt and pepper to taste. Repack the eggs. Press the halves together and arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves. Pour a little cooked dressing over each egg. The lettuce should be sprinkled with French dressing. The olives may be reserved for sprinkling over the eggs

GERMAN RUSH FOR EDUCATION HALTS

University Attendance Shows Falling Off And Brings Relief To Educators

Berlin, June 18.—German university attendance is declining and as a result there is a general sigh of relief in educational circles. For, paradoxically, the crowding of the upper schools instead of proving a symptom of natural growth, as it appeared last year, is an unhealthy phenomenon which if continued might bring talented young men to disaster.

Last year 88,000 students matriculated in German universities against 61,000 before the war. And although the figure now has dropped only a little over 4,000, this, it is hoped, shows a return to reasonable conditions. The number of medical students leads the list with 16,682, which is admitted to be far above the future needs of the country, for it is estimated that there are already 3,000 too many graduated physicians in Germany.

The law students number 15,295, or fifty percent more than in peace times, which is a direct result of the revolution and the opening it promised for officials careers to the classes previously slighted in appointments to civil service. The number is far above the requirements, and fell more than 1,200 during the year. There are over five times as many dental students as before the war, dentistry having finally been acknowledged to be a science in Germany. The only future for many of these university graduates will be to emigrate which, with the present conditions in Germany, is impossible.

The need of Germany before the war was for more students. Today the need is for highly skilled workers, and wherever practical university heads advise young men to learn a trade rather than a profession. The Berlin University remains the largest in Germany with 12,532 students. Munich University has 8,315; Leipsic, 5,793; Bonn, 4,974; Frankfort, 4,141. Rostock is the smallest, with 1,145.

Blackton Produces A 'Movie' In Colors

London, June 18.—J. Stuart Blackton is now working on a picture called "The Glorious Adventure," in which he is introducing natural color pictures produced by a new process, and has chosen Lady Diana Manners as the "star" to demonstrate his scheme.

Mr. Blackton admits that colored films have been made before, but he says they have been mainly short ones, with the subjects limited to flowers and fruit. Now, he asserts, he can successfully reproduce natural colors in a way that will revolutionise the film industry, because he will be able to bring out the details of a scene in a much more emphatic manner than has ever been possible of attainment heretofore and give to them a stereoptic value which has been impossible of attainment in old black and white photography.

He says he can bring out the beautiful textures and gorgeous colorings of dresses now worn by actresses and relieve the producer of the present difficulty of trying to blend colors unnaturally in order to get the desired results.

Bulgarians Shout Against Shaw Play

Many Ejected From Vienna Theater Where 'Arms And The Man' Is Playing

Vienna, June 12.—"Arms and the Man" came into conflict at the Viennese Schloss Theater, attached to the late imperial palace Schonbrunn, during the production last night of Shaw's comedy of that name. Various Bulgarians living in Vienna had assembled in force to protest against what they consider national insults against Bulgaria made by Shaw in the course of the play. Although the management who had got wind of what was afoot attempted to appease Bulgarian wrath by a soothing preliminary speech, it was of no avail.

When Raina boasted of his library, claiming it to be the only one in Bulgaria, there was an outbreak of shouting and yelling which delayed the performance until the police had ejected several people. At the commencement of the second act there was another outbreak. Major Petkoff was remarking that he could not understand western extravagance with soap and water and comparing it with Bulgarian economy in these matters when the whole Bulgarian crowd was on its feet once more protesting. Bulgarians in the stalls were specially indignant and one said to be a member of the Bulgarian Embassy in Vienna, shouted that Bulgaria was an ally of Austrian during the war and was now insulted from the Austrian stage.

Further forays by the police ended in more demonstrators being ejected. The interruptions continued until at last the audience itself turned upon the Bulgarian cohorts who, finding public opinion against them, gave up the struggle and sat through the remainder in pained silence.

Breakfast is served on the outward journey, tiffin can be ordered on the car in the Railway siding at Henli, and dinner is obtainable on the train during the return trip. Breakfast 75 cents, tiffin $1.50 and dinner $1.50 each.

This excursion affords an excellent opportunity of getting away from town for a day into the beautiful country-side during the best period of the year.

The 10 hours at Henli give ample time for rowing, swimming, or houseboat enjoyment.

At Kunshan the 9½ hours can be enjoyably spent in visiting the Gardens and Pagodas. The latter stand on the summit of Kunshan Hill, inside the city walls and can be reached in half an hour by rickshaws or by walking through the city from Kunshan station.

Soochow is noted for the well kept Private Gardens and also Tiger Hill with its Pagoda on the top, and 8 hours between the arrival and departure of the Sunday Special can be well spent in seeing these places. The city temple and silk shops inside the city are also well worth a visit. There are several Hotels at Soochow, at which foreign food is served.

Wusih city is a great silk center, and the 6 hours before the train is due to return can be filled by taking a trip to Wei Hill, two miles from Wusih Station, which can be easily reached by rickshaw, sedan chair or boat in the course of an hour. Those who climb to the top of the Hill will be rewarded with a magnificent view of Wusih city, and the Great Ta Hu Lake.

Time-tables and copies of illustrated pamphlets giving full information in regard to the above, and other points of interest can be obtained on application at the Enquiry Office Shanghai North. Seats on the train can be reserved by telephoning North 3199.

Acting Traffic Manager,

Money And Markets In The U. S.

BUSINESS SITUATION

The following discussion of current market conditions is sent by the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

Business, at the beginning of 1921, faced three primary obstacles to the conduct of affairs on anything like a normal plane. Commodity prices were still in many cases grossly inflated. Wages still on a war basis. The banking position was obviously strained. These obstacles are not to be regarded as entirely overcome, but much progress has been made.

Six months ago it scarcely seemed possible that by this time prices for many raw materials would have reached a point of approximate stabilisation; that wage reductions would have been accepted by workers in widely diversified industries in the realisation that they were just and necessary, and finally that the banking position as a whole could have improved to the extent indicated by the substantial reduction in the borrowings of reporting member banks at the Federal reserve banks. Such borrowings have declined nearly 40 percent from the maximum reached last fall.

Sentiment with respect to business will naturally fluctuate in times like these. The reaction from the spurt in spring business has caused disappointment. The end of the premature revival in the automobile industry and the renewed downward movement in the prices of some commodities, notably sugar and petroleum, have been factors in bringing about a spirit of pessimism which is not entirely justified when the improvement in fundamental conditions is considered.

On the other hand, it is unwise to expect other than quiet business during the summer months. Satisfactory recovery can come only after a protracted period, during which price liquidation must be completed as to manufactured and semi-finished goods and confidence in the future restored. Closely connected, too, with domestic business is the state of trade abroad and especially in Europe where political considerations must be a powerful influence in shaping the future. But in this direction also encouragement may be found in the fixing of a definite schedule of reparations payments as well as the now plainly discernible determination of most of the peoples of Europe to resume productive enterprise as rapidly as possible.

BUILDING

The attitude of labor as expressed in wage disputes, especially in New England and the middle west, has seriously retarded building operations although increased activity resulted in a larger total of contracts awarded in May than in April. The F. W. Dodge Company's valuation of contracts awarded during May in 25 northeastern states is $232,000,000 as compared with $221,000,000 in April and $247,000,000 in May, 1920. The valuation of building permits granted in the principal cities of the United States during May shows a decline from the April total of about 6 percent, indicating that the usual seasonal decline in building operations is in effect.

RAILROADS

Progressive increases in the weekly totals of revenue freight loaded on the railroads of the United States, which have advanced from 667,000 cars for the week ending April 2 to 787,000 cars for the week ending May 28, indicate that railway traffic once more is approaching levels which will make possible operation without loss. April statements of gross and net earnings, now available for most of the principal systems, also exhibit improvement over the average for the first three months of the year. It must not be forgotten that comparison with the corresponding month of 1920 is with the period of the switchmen's strike when freight movement was greatly disorganised throughout the country and was almost at a standstill on many lines. The favorable showing made in the reduction of operating expenses during April is also at least in part the result of the determination of many railroads to postpone maintenance and other work ordinarily undertaken in the spring until the new wage scales announced by the Labor Board are put into effect on July 1. The reductions announced by the board on June 1, while less than the demands of the railway managers, are large enough to be of material assistance when coupled with increased traffic.—New York, June 21.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 22, 1921

Spot bar silver was up 1d. and forward up 3/4d. in London yesterday.

The New York price was up to 61 cents and the London-New York cross rate remained unchanged at 358½.

The official Sterling rate here was up 1/2d. and the Gold Dollar rate 1/2 cent.

Business was done at 3/9½ for cash, 3/9 for July and 3/8⅝ for August in Sterling and in Gold Dollars at 67½ for July and 66¾ for August.

The market weakened somewhat during the day and there were good buyers at the above rates.

Cotton

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report of today:

China Cotton.—Our market during the past week was practically void of any demand, as far as current business is concerned, on the part of spinners for the local staple, while prices for near deliveries were lower by 3 mace per picul they were that much higher for distant deliveries than the level prevailing during the previous period. The growing strength in the rates for future deliveries is ascribable to the fact of the new crop being late by about one month this coming season, although reports as to the progress of the new crop throughout the Cotton belt are so far more or less favorable and the expectations for the time being are for an average size crop, though the acreage planted was computed to be larger than that of the past year.

Prices in Mid-American and Indians continued steady and a fair business in these is reported to have been consummated during the week under review.

The tendency in the near future is for firmer markets, which will be modified more or less by the daily reports as the progress of the new crop from the various sections of the Cotton delta. Tone of the market, firm.

Jute Fabrics

Mr. J. A. Fredericks writes as follows in the jute fabrics circular dated July 20:

Business is still at a standstill with nothing to report. Prices have appreciated in Calcutta since writing last, but, at the close they stand somewhat lower than the highest reported. Prices continue nominal.

Rubber Prices

Messrs. R. N. Truman and Company have received the following telegram from their Singapore Agents in connection with the auctions held at Singaport on Wednesday, July 20:

No. 1 Smoked Sheet $0.30 per pound equivalent to 8¼d. ex warehouse Singapore.

No. 1 Crepe $0.32 per pound equivalent to 9d. ex warehouse Singapore.

Market easier. Offered 442 tons; sold. 348 tons.

Yangtszepoo Social Center Notes

The Acting Director, Dr. J. B. Webster, Prof. of Education and Religious Pedagogy in Shanghai College, has left for America. During his absence, Dr. H. W. Decker M. D. has the charge of the work.

It is expected that Prof. D. H. Kulpell, the General Director and Founder of the institution will come back sometime next month. It is understood that he has made new plans for the future development of the work here.

Mr. S. C. Djen, the former Social Secretary here has gone to America to further his study in Denison University. Mr. Daniel M. Chang, a graduate of the Shanghai College substitutes for him.

The Daily Vacation Bible School session has been going on for three weeks. The work seems to be more successful and impressive than before. Owing to the resignation of Mr. T. R. Ching, who was the Superintendent since the beginning of this work in the Center, Mr. D. Y. Tsien, the Educational Secretary, is now in charge.

The fourth annual report will be out sometime next week. Those who wish copies may write to Mr. Daniel M. Chang, the Business Secretary.

The work in the Industrial Hospital, which is subordinate to the Center is also successful under the able management of Dr. Decker, who is assisted by Dr. Shen.

The Center furnishes moving picture show bi-weekly for the people in the district.

The Center Staff will have a three-weeks vacation beginning on August 13. The Closing Day Exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School, Boys' School and the Girls' School will be held on the same day at 2:00 p.m. The public is cordially invited to be present.

The Center extends a cordial invitation to those who are interested in Social Service to inspect the Center.

A Chinese Opinion Of Theosophy

TWO days ago I was informed by a friend of mine that the Secretary of the Theosophical Society was going to give a lecture touching upon the essential questions of the society. After a day of hard, worldly labor, I started on my way, together with two other friends, to get something for my spiritual good. We reached the audience hall just a score of minutes later than the starting moment, and found the lecture already had drifted a long way off. Mr. Wood, the Secretary, in his first appearance, seemed to be rather solemn and thoughtful, and spoke very fluently. So far as I could follow him, I perceived his ideas to be not far from the teachings of the famous poet Tagore, with a slight admixture of religion. Therefore, in my opinion, the teachings of theosophy are not so liberal as Tagore's nor so religious as Euken's. However, several points of value may be presented here to the general reader in regard to the principles of the teaching:

(a) Its antagonism towards modern materialism.—We all very well know that the Great War was brought about by indulgence in materialism which in turn has brought about many petty wars existing even to this day. Do the people of this day realise the fact that materialism is the prime cause of all our recent and existing calamnities? Judging from the activities and policies of both governments and individuals, we may positively give answer in the negative. Theosophy, though founded nearly fifty years ago, was able to see through the heart of matters. Its principle object is to lead men from this imperfect and limited world to the perfect and unlimited. It is almost impossible for the human being to know things eternal without freshing himself from the fetters and chains of this world. So Theosophy by teaching men how to realise the path to truth and the way to salvation first frees us from the all-increasing obstacles. The first and most important step to be taken in order to be saved is to eject from your mind anything worldly or materialistic. It does not mean that we must shun the world altogether, but that the human and worldly must surrender to the superhuman and eternal. Then the soul of the universe reigns, and peace follows.

(b) The Equality of All Beings in the Universe, either natural or supernatural:—No distinction between God and man, nor between man and beast—this is the second important idea of the theosophical teaching. It is all through Buddhistic and pantheistic, a combination of the Indian philosophy and the teachings of Spinoza who is in reality also full of Eastern thoughts. The limited world cannot be forced to run on an equal standing; it will either cease to function or develop into anarchical chaos. Even the lowest living creatures have rank and file. The trouble is that the basis of this world rests upon the principle of relativity. Progress is impossible without competition, and in turn competition is impossible without relative comparison.

It is only the spiritual that is free from all comparison and progress, because it is complete and infinite in itself, without gain or loss, in fact self-sufficient. By realising this, we may unite to work for the universal brotherhood of humanity. I may also call the attention of the public to the fact that Theosophy does not try to do away with progress or evolution, but tries to lead men to realise that progress or evolution must work toward the spiritual in order to attain universal equality and peace.

(c) Salvation can only be obtained through one's own effort: This is again very Buddhistic. It is, I believe, a doctrine which distinguishes the teachings of Buddha from all the rest of the religious world. It is Schopenhauer's salvation through self-abnegation. The reason why Buddhism appeals so much to men of thought, is that it is both highly religious and highly philosophical. We can hardly find a religious teaching which is so adaptable to all phases of evolution as the teaching of Buddha. Even the teaching of Christ requires adjustment in order to maintain itself in the modern world. Buddhism, on the contrary, affords every teaching that is accountable either by modern science of philosophy. This self-reliance of Buddhism is really the moving spirit of modern science and philosophy, and Theosophy is ninety-nine percent Buddhistic. We may safely assert that nobody will believe in anything unless he first gets something which will at least seem reasonable to him. Theosophy in its very etymology shows the predominance of this principle.

(d) Freedom from Dogmas: We never tolerate anything which presumes to have the air of the master or the tone of instruction, not even the mere title of anything superior. In our thought especially we need the spirit of liberty. Theosophy in this respect tries its best to give equal honor to every religion which exists on this earth. It admits members of any religion, or teaching or sect. The ways to truth may be many, but truth itself is only one, single and complete. We need not trouble about who will reign in the spiritual sphere, but we are sure that only the representatives of truth will survive. In fact every religion has some truth in it; the difference is only a matter of degree. Woe unto the man who insults the belief of others, because thereby he restricts himself, and sets a bar to his spiritual life, which will eventually dwarf its natural growth and progress. Let us all respect each other's beliefs and co-operate in the search after truth.

W. Y. H.

Correspondence

TABLE TOPICS

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—The letter from "Finger-bowl" appearing in your correspondence column this morning prompts me to say I was at a dinner last night, and heard none of the subjects mentioned in the list expurgatorius.

Although the party was a mixed one the house cat was allowed to brush the legs of the diners without exciting a single comment on domestic pets; the amah problem never reached the point of articulation though much remains to be said. Nor did I catch any reference to the various culinary slight 'o hand tricks of No. 1 boy in the kitchen. Mr. Snodgrass, recently come from San Francisco, was refused audience when he launched out on the oft dissected feelings of the passengers when tremendous seas flung the life boats down the scuppers.

What we did talk about was the amazing development of the Japanese as tennis players. A Japanese team from Mitsui Bussan Kaisha is the favorite in the final of the Shanghai hong doubles championship, to be played Tuesday next. Another Japanese team is picked for the possible challenger in the Davis cup final soon to be played in America. Tennis is comparatively new in Japan, yet the island net artists are strong in the race for laurels.

Owing to the absence of medical opinion we could not settle the question as to why the Chinese are immune from sunstroke, even though they brave the noon sun with no more protection than a folding fan.

Other things we discussed included the possible opening of the trans-Siberian railway, now that Mr. Crane has been given permission to return to America that way.

We also wondered if the Prince of Wales will accept the invitation to visit Japan, which will possibly mean a stop in Shanghai.

May I suggest, Sir, that "Finger-bowl" seems to have been extremely unfortunate in his dinner table environment? There is enough intellectual nourishment in Shanghai for a Dr. Johnson or an Addison if one goes to the right place. Violets are to be found in Thibet, and roses in the Sahara, but the vast expanse of rocks or sand must not discourage the seeker for floral perfume. Yours, Sir,

"SEMI-INTELLIGENT."

WANTED, A CURE FOR HAY FEVER

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—May I be permitted to ask through your columns if any one knows even a partial cure for hay fever?

The pollen season has come, and with it the woes of those with tender membranes. Catarrhal jellies, solutions for the atomiser, and even cocaine, have been tried, but eyes continue to weep, and the cup runneth over.

A suggestion of means for temporary relief would be most welcome. Long ago I gave up hope for complete cure, Yours,

AN OLD SUFFERER.

HIGH RENTS vs. LOW SKIRTS

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—Now that the Council has decided not to interfere with the rack renters of Shanghai, I venture to ask that they be solicited to legislate regarding a matter that will not cause heart burning among our absentee landlords and it is this:

Why should not an ordinance or order in council be passed as follows, to wit:

Inasmuch as prices are falling the world over, the high cost of skirting must have come down, and we therefore enact that no woman shall be seen on the street without at least fourteen inches of nether drapery measured from the south side of her armpits toward the ground. By south side shall be understood the lower side as on maps.

So much for the ordinance which I not being a lawyer hesitate to more than sketch. Now for my grievance. Being an aesthetic mortal, I do not mind women exposing shapely limbs or legs as the purist would say. But I certainly do object when Grandma goes forth in all her avoirdupois, accumulated through forty-fifty-sixty (maybe) years, wearing a skirt that is a cross between that of a ballet dancer and the yard of gauze we now inflict upon the three-year-old.

Dear Mr. Editor, if we can't have lower rents, can we not at least have lower clothes. Let there at least be an age limit is the plea of your disgusted reader, Enclosing my card, I am, Yours,

VINDEX.

THE MAIN TABLE TOPIC

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—Miss McCormick hit the right nail on the head when she gave in her own inimitable style the king of talk heard round the dining tables of Shanghai.

Let me give you a little story which happens to be quite true.

A man left Shanghai for a short trip to the homeland. On his return he was asked out to a dinner party. He listened throughout the seven or more courses to gossip about Mister This, and Mrs. That, and Miss The Other Thing. After displaying any amount of patience, he was unable to contain himself any longer. To a question put to him by his hostess "Why are you so quiet Mr. Query?" He replied: "Mrs. Question Mark, I have been away from Shanghai for four months, now I know I am back again. I have heard during the last half hour nothing but scandal—while I was away I heard no scandal." Yes, sir, our table talk is trifling enough to be boring in a nursery. It is unkind enough to please the Devil himself. Yours etc;

SERVIETTE RING.

DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS IN FOOCHOW ROAD

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—Shanghai is a model settlement—for prostitution. If you don't believe it, go to either one of the two best patronised teashops on Foochow Road between 4 p.m. and 11 p.m. Nowhere in the world is the devil more active than in these two dens of human sinfulness. The decree handed down by the Municipal Council a year ago forbidding street soliciting has driven the horde of degenerates to these places where they are able to satisfy their brutal cravings at any hour of the day.

It is too much for any modest writer to describe the most deplorable conditions existing there. Suffice it to say that innocent girls are driven to these hells of crime by their mercenary mistresses, while ignorant boys are lured to depravity, disease and ruin.

Countless Chinese young men have met with their destruction in these tea shops. Many foreigners, especially visiting bluejackets, have met with the same fate. Will you, Mr. Editor, help us to remove these eye sores from our model settlement? I am. Yours faithfully,

HUA KWAN-FOO AND 150 OTHER CHINESE.

July 22, 1921.

CATS AND FLEAS

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—Perhaps your little reader Ann would like to give her cat a spongeing in a strong solution of Lysol—one teaspoonful to a pint of water is not too strong, and from my own experience with a dog, I think she will find that the objectionable insects will simply drop out. They don't like Lysol. Hoping this suggestion may be of help. Yours truly,

J. M.

VRAIMENT?

Editor, The China Press

Sir.—Frenchtown is in a state of political ferment over the unexpected, and unofficial, announcement that the republican government in Paris has again fallen before the sweep of Napoleonic imperialism.

Although all good Frenchmen drank success to the Republic on July 14 they are informed that their political faith has been in vain, for the consular notice regarding the killing of dogs in the concession, appearing in your paper July 21, is capped by an emblem bearing strange similarity to the Napoleonic ensignia of 100 years ago.

One sees the imperial eagle, the badge of the Legion d'Honeur, the star of destiny, the crown Napoleon put on his head, and the famous Bonaparte ermine. Is one to believe a coup d'etat has been effected without notifying Shanghai of the momentous event?

As a Frenchman I refuse to believe the imperialists have returned to power . . . but I ask you for enlightenment.

REPUBLICUS

THE TRAMS AND THE HOSPITAL

Editor, The China Press

Dear Sir.—Let me add my protest against the noise in front of the Shanghai General Hospital. "Convalescent" is right. The Tramway Company is the worst offender and it seems that orders could be given to motormen to cut the speed of cars to three miles an hour while passing the institution. I believe that in nearly every city in the United States, municipal ordinances compel trolley cars to cut down speed in the so-called "hospital zones."

Drivers of motor cars are not allowed to blow horns while in the zones unless it is absolutely necessary. Enclosing my card, I am,

A FORMER PATIENT.

WE HAVEN'T ANY SUGGESTIONS TO MAKE

Editor, The China Press

Dear Sir.—Through your columns I should like to know "How to control a wife?—How is the man to do it?"

Annie is one of those little women with big brown eyes and rather babyish ways. You would think anybody could do anything with her. But one can't. At least, I can't, I can't! Which is all that matters to me.

If I scold her she laughs. If I lecture she interrupts in the middle of it all with some questions which shows that her thoughts are miles away from what I am saying. If I take refuge in dignified silence she steals up behind me and whispers "Poor old thing, has it got the hump then?" or something equally disrespectful.

But even then she isn't penitent. Not a bit of it. If I try to talk to her seriously she wriggles out of it and dances off.

I can't lock her up, and if I did she would pretend that she mislaid the key and send the maid for a carpenter.

My brother Ken, who is an ass at times, suggested that some day, while Annie is out I should lock up all her prettiest frocks and refuse to surrender the key until she promised to be more obedient. But, of course, Annie would simply go off to some shop and buy more frocks and I should have to pay for them.

I did try the time-honored device of bringing home a man to dinner unexpectedly. That is always supposed to be frightfully upsetting for the wife, who must appear pleased, while inwardly raging, and has to fly around opening tins with one hand and smoothing down the cook with the other.

Then when she has concocted a four-course dinner out of three tins and a piece of margarine, she has to run upstairs and change into an evening frock and spend a couple of hours making cheerful conversation with hatred in her heart, and probably mortification as well, since the cook has most likely muddled the tinned dinner after all.

I thought, after an evening of this sort, there would be no more spirit in Annie and I should have things my own way.

It would be necessary of course, to point out that her lack of wifely submission was wrecking a happy home, and that she must mend her ways. But afterwards I would forgive her and she would weep tears of penitential affection on my manly shoulder. It wasn't any good though. I took Simpson home with me one evening. Annie and I had been scrapping at breakfast) and explained that he had come to dinner.

"Oh, Bill" she exclaimed, "cook is going out this evening, and there is nothing but cold mutton for dinner and a piece of tart.

Of course old Simpson rose to the occasion and cleared out, and we dined uncomfortably off cold mutton and cold tart, though I believe cook was in the very act of making a curry when Annie went into the kitchen. What is one to do with a wife like that? Yours, Etc.

A HELPLESS MAN.

FATHER, MOTHER AND BABY

He goes to town each morning
By the seven-thirty train,
Returns again each evening
And then goes out again—
At poker and at billiards
He rests his weary brain—

THAT'S FATHER.

She stays at home a-cooking
The meal for his return,
She spends some time a-looking
In her mirror, just to learn
If she is growing older—
Then she lets the dinner burn—

THAT'S MOTHER.

It rests from dawn to dewy eve
In one unbroken sleep,
It wakes when we're retiring
And starts at once to weep,
It does just what it shouldn't
But yet we all would keep—
OUR BABY.

WHAT EVERY MOTHER SAYS

"We don't flatter ourselves that he's a pretty baby, but he is so healthy-looking. Really, I often say I'd rather have him that way than just pretty."

"I think he is going to be some kind of scientist. Ever since he was a little bit of a thing he has been crazy about taking things apart and trying to put them together again."

"I do wish you could see him in his bath."

"Sometimes I'm afraid his brain is too active. That's why we are glad he doesn't try to say any words or repeat any nursery rhymes—we don't want his brain to be overworked."

"Well, no, he doesn't walk yet. But he'll be running about all over the place once he starts—that's the way he does everything."

"The photographer says he is the best baby he has ever taken."

"Just hear him cry because his nurse took away that hatpin from him! He certainly has a will of his own—and it is a good thing to have, too, I think."

"So many people seem to think he looks like his father, but he is really exactly like a picture I have of myself when I was a baby two weeks old."

"He's a regular boy alright—no one would ever mistake him for a girl. Of course he's rather rough now and then, but I'd rather have him like that."

"You know it isn't his looks so much but he has such a personality. He always has had—all the nurses at the hospital remarked about it. What? Oh! Just two months."

LULLABIES FROM OTHER LANDS

Talking about babies naturally reminds me of lullabies. The following are some translations of lullabies sung to little children in other lands:

DANISH

Sleep, sleep, little mouse!
The field your father ploughs;
Your mother feeds pigs in the sty,
She'll come and slap you when you cry.

SPANISH

The moon shines bright,
And the snake darts swift and light;
I see five baby bullocks,
And a calf young and white.

SWEDISH

Hush, hush, baby mine;
Pussy climbs the big green pine;
Mother turns the millstone;
Father to kill the pig has gone.

Buried Temple Of Baraboedoer In Java Among World's Wonders

BY DOROTHY DIX

Garoet, Java, Saturday, June 11.—The railroad trains in Java do not run at night. When dusk comes of an afternoon they stop wherever they may happen to be, and the next morning at 7 resume their interrupted journey.

So, at the appointed hour of a steamy morning we took our places in one of these slow-moving vehicles for Garoet, a beautiful little resort up in the mountains, where the atmosphere was cool, and full of oxygen and you could breathe without gasping for air like a dying fish, as you do in Batavia.

For sheer beauty of scenery, there is probably no other trip in the world equal to that through central Java. In the first few hours of it you exhaust your whole supply of adjectives of wonder, and admiration, and delight, and after that you sit dumb, marveling in silence as the panorama unrolls itself before you.

The country is of inexhaustible fertility. They raise two or three crops a year on the land and it is so carefully cultivated that you scarcely see a weed. We went through endless fields of rice, and sugar cane, and Indian corn and tea and coffee, and sweet potatoes, and peanuts, and tapioca cocoa, and indigo, and tobacco, and cocoanut orchards, and clove orchards and pepper orchards, and goodness knows what else I never imagined that only one country could grow so many different varieties of foodstuffs.

Then, as we began climbing the mountains, the scenery grew even more picturesque. We crept on trestles over lush little valleys above the tops of the tallest cocoanut palms. We crossed silvery rivers, we had splendid vistas of towering cliffs over which waterfalls tumbled like silver ribbons, and always curling around the mountain tops, or hanging like a veil from their sides, were pennons of smoke from volcanoes that are still burning.

And from the trees of the forest hung rare orchids, and other strange blooms, and through their branches flitted bright-winged birds.

Garoet is the kind of a place in which you would like to sit down in a comfortable chair and do nothing but breathe, and that is the way we mostly passed our time there, we were so exhausted by the heat on the seashore.

However, one drive we took will always live in my memory. We went out to a beautiful lake on whose bank were a score of little brown children, dressed in their birthday suits, and nothing more. Not even a necklace, but each child had in its hand a bunch of flowers which, he or she offered for sale, kneeling before us, but saying never a word. There was one little Eve, exquisitely beautiful, who knelt at my feet with a white camellia clasped in her hands as if in prayer, which I bought "off of her," as they say on the East Side in New York.

Other children played wonderfully on some queer, rude harp-like musical instruments that were made of different lengths and sizes of bamboo hung loosely into frames, and which they manipulated by shaking. It made a queer, haunting melody to which the children danced.

The Javanese are born musicians, like the Hawaiians, and their music has a rhythm to it that is pleasing to European ears, unlike that of the Japanese and Chinese.

This is the "Little Theater" idea in its ultimate expression. Out of buffalo hide the Javanese make peculiarly hideous and grotesque marionettes that are painted vivid colors. These represent different characters and are worked by means of strings so that their shadows are thrown on a cloth, and it is by the action of these shadows that the audience follows the drama.

The Javanese are famous for their acrobatic dancing, and at night we saw what was said to be a fine exhibition of it. It began by two wooden-faced women advancing with slow, measured steps into the center of the room, the while they waved their arms in weird motions. Then they bent themselves backward until their heads touched the floor, and tied themselves into bow-knots, and slip-knots, and apparently disjointed every bone and went through every known variety of contortion. This was accompanied by ear-piercing sounds supposed to be song which they emitted. After a bit, a man on the side lines came out and joined the ladies, then another man, and they backed and filed, and writhed before each other. Then they retreated, and other men took a turn. More joined in from time to time until, at last, there were 16 men and the two women going through what appeared to be dying agonies, while the music grew louder and louder, and jazzier until we fled from it to save our eardrums.

The dance was said to be interpretative, but what it interpreted I do not know any more than I know why, when the barefooted lady on the Metropolitan stage gives three jumps to the right and wiggles her big toe at the bass viol, it means springtime and blooming flowers and the joy of love, and when she gives four leaps to the left and shakes a wicked foot at the snare drum it means winter and death, and that her trusting heart has been foully deceived by a miscreant. The inner meanings of interpretive dancing are hidden from me, but when it comes to writhing to music, the Javanese have got all the other writhers I have seen beaten to a standstill.

The most interesting thing in Java—one of the most interesting things in the whole world, for that matter—is Baraboedoer, the great Buddhist temple that is the strangest romance of all religious architecture. This temple is situated about 20 miles from the little town of Djocja, from whence you reach it by carriage or automobile.

This great temple, which makes the pyramids of Egypt sink into insignificance by comparison, was built centuries and centuries before the coming of Christ, under the direction of Buddhist missionaries who brought with them to Java a pinch of the ashes of Buddha in a vase, and who erected this mountain of marvelously carved stone as a shrine for it.

They built first an artificial plain 150 feet high, and on this they erected a building 2,000 feet around, consisting of six massive terraces. Along each terrace is a gallery with a series of arches, each holding a figure of Buddha differing from the other images only in the pose of the hands. The upper terrace was surmounted by a tower in which was an unfinished Buddha which was supposed to represent his final absorption into Nirvana, and his breaking with the circle of life.

The walls of each of these galleries is carved, every inch of it, with marvelous bas reliefs that tell the story of the birth and life of Buddha in his various incarnations. There is the story of Buddha when he was a fish, when he was a deer, when he was an elephant, when he was a rich man, when a poor man, for he knew every phase of life, animal and human, and so could understand and be compassionate with all.

STORIES ARE ILLUSTRATED

Here is the story of the Kuru-deer who taught men to be merciful to dumb animals, and the story of the wonderful fish that illustrated the power of truth, and its story of the rich Brahmin who acquired merit by going into the jungle and living on lives boiled in water, and the story of the elephant who bore the ring about his foot with such patience that at last it fell off of itself, and thousands upon thousands of the other stories that teach the wisdom and goodness of the Bodhisavatta.

It is the picture bible of the Buddhists, the finest temple that was ever reared to Buddha, and as you wander down its miles and miles of sculptured galleries you marvel more and more at the wonder of it. How could it have been built more than 11 centuries ago by a people who have now forgotten every ancient art they ever practiced? How could such a structure have ever been reared in the heart of the jungle in a day when there were no means of transportation as there are now? How did they even assemble the materials of which it was built! Where get the artisans? From whence came the artists who carved its endless walls into things of imperishable beauty? What architectural genius designed it? None know.

When the Mohammedans conquered Java and overran it they imposed their religion upon the Javanese. They destroyed the Buddhist temples and mutilated all of their statues because it is contrary to the Mohammedan religion to make any sort of an image.

The priests of Baraboedoer heard what their conquerors were doing to their coreligionists, and to save their beautiful temple they covered it over with earth, and planted trees upon it. Tradition says that at last they literally dug themselves in, and that when the final earth was thrown upon the temple a large number of the priests were shut within it and perished there.

In that hot, moist climate the jungle in an incredibly short time closed in about the temple. Trees, and vines, and flowers grew an impenetrable thicket above it, and for 600 years it was lost. It was utterly forgotten, and its name not so much as mentioned.

From 1811 to 1816 the fortunes of war made Java a British possession, and Sir Stamford Raffles was in charge of the administration of the island. Through some old papers that came into his possession he got track of the lost temple, and started to work clearing the jungle, and removing the earth from it, and when it was done the structure was found to be almost as perfect as when it was built. It had been hermetically preserved to be the eighth wonder of the world.

Almost in the shadow of the great temple we saw men and women making the batik work for which Java is famous, and which we are imitating in our near-batik way at home. The basis of most of the real batik work is a very fine, smoothly woven cotton. This is boiled in oil and dried and then reboiled four times. Then it is stretched tight on a frame and the pattern drawn. The worker has beeswax in a little vessel under which burns a spirit lamp that keeps it liquid, and this beeswax is applied to every particle of the cloth except the parts in which a certain shade is to be dyed. Every time a new hue is put in the beeswax must be removed. Then the new color is dyed in. This process of removing the beeswax and putting it in a different place, is repeated for every color, and shade of color.

It is an endless process, as you will realise when you think how many different colors, some of them mere lines, go to the making of an elaborate pattern, and you do not wonder that just an ordinary batik sarong—a straight piece of cloth two and a half yards long by about a yard and a quarter wide—costs from $30 up.

BEAUTIFUL SCARFS MADE

The Javanese also get beautiful effects in what they call tiec-work. They take silk cloth, pinch it up and tie it with thread, making little bumps, and dye this somehow making a pattern of wonderful shades. This work makes lovely, crinkly scarfs.

At Djocja we went to the palace of the Sultan of Djocja. He lives in great state with his large and interesting family, for he has 36 wives, 86 children and 250 grandchildren and he is only 86 years old at that.

Not far away is the water palace which was used as the summer palace of the Sultan in olden days. It is now a ruin, but in its time, before it was shelled by the Dutch some 300 years ago, it must have been a sumptuous spot. It consists of a collection of stucco houses with walls three feet thick to keep out the heat, built along the banks of a babbling brook. There are still magnificent gardens, and a great swimming pool which connects with what was the Sultan's bedroom. This was a cavelike apartment built across the little stream, and you can see the great stone four-post bed under which the water flows.

It must have been charming to be lulled to sleep by the singing of the little stream, provided, of course, one had no fear of the twinges of rheumatism, or the other ailments incident to sleeping in damp spots, for green moss and mould were everywhere.

In native Java the emblem of rank is the umbrella, and we were much impressed by the sight of one of the grandees of the Sultan's household out taking a stroll, while an attendant held over his head a yellow umbrella with a handle that must have been ten feet long.

LAND WITHOUT JOY

Of course it is impossible for any traveler, who only spends a few weeks in a country, to speak with authority about its social conditions, but the Javanese people struck me as being utterly hopeless and forlorn and crushed. I never heard a single laugh, nor saw a native smile while I was on the island. Even the children played joylessly and noiselessly.

The Dutch government encourages intermarriage between Hollanders and natives, and the half breeds are not ostracised in the best society, as are the Eurasians in India.

The memory of Java that I shall always have with me is that of the patient, bent natives toiling in supercultivated fields; the strange orderliness of a tropic jungle that has been tamed and forced to produce useful foodstuffs instead of a useless riot of flowers and palms; and superimposed upon that, a picture of rich, fat Dutchmen and their bejeweled wives in rich, fat cars rolling past thin, weary-looking, little brown men and women, a vision of people forced to toil who were born to sleep in the sun.

Rum thing, colonisation and civilisation. Very, very rummy. Perhaps it's all for the good of the world. We need Java sugar, and Java coffee, and rubber, and rice, and indigo, and cocoa, and all the other things that the efficient Dutch force the indolent Malay to grow for us on their beauteous isle. But if I ever have to be colonised I don't want the Germans or the Dutch to do the job.
